Unite for Peace Mac Urges U.K.

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan appealed to the British nation Friday—on the heels of an election victory that buried the Labor party under a landslide—to unite behind his Conservatives in a march to peace.

As counting in Thursday's general election ended for the night with only two of the 630 districts missing, the Conservatives had an overall majority of exactly 100, compared to 53 in the last House of Commons. (See stories on page 5.)

The Conservatives elected 365 members to the House of Commons, compared with 258 for Labor and five for the Liberals.

GAIN OF 23
This was a net gain for the Conservatives of 23 seats and a loss for Labor of 23. The two remaining contests were in the Scottish Highlands, where results are not expected until today. One is expected to go Conservative and one Liberal.

One of the first bills to be presented by Macmillan's new government is expected to be one to facilitate the movement of industries to places with higher-than-average unemployment such as Scotland and Lancashire. In these areas are districts that went contrary to the Conservative swing.

The prime minister, who led his party into an almost unprecedented third term in power only 15 months after its popularity had reached a low ebb, told the British people in a television broadcast that he will use the authority of his re-elected government to promote world peace.

In the domestic field, the results of Thursday's election had shown that "the class war is obsolete" in England today, and "this seems to me a great gain for the future."

THREE TASKS

The powerful new government would strive to fulfill three main tasks:

"Maintain the national prosperity and . . . spread its benefits . . . throughout the country."

"Use our growing economic strength to increase our contribution to the life of countries overseas, particularly within the Commonwealth."

"Use our authority in the world to play our full part in the constant search for peace."

Meanwhile, it was indicated Macmillan will keep his cabinet ministers in their present posts when he plans his new administration next week.

Oct. 27 is the starting date for the new Parliament. Some reconstruction is in order since the prime minister lost two junior ministers in Thursday's election and he also has promised to appoint a minister of science.

SETBACK

A short time earlier in the night Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Labor party, had told a press conference that socialism had "suffered neither a landslide or a disaster but a setback" in its vain bid to overthrow the party that has ruled the land since 1951.

There were some rumors in political circles that his own future as party leader might be in doubt, with a possible reascendency of Aneurin Bevan, the fiery leftwinger of the party who had been content to take a subsidiary role in this election.

ROBERT SMEAL

B.C. Federation Chief

Victorian Wins Top Labor Post

Robert Smeal, 39, a leading trade unionist in Victoria for many years, yesterday was elected president of the 126,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC).

He left the city to start work in Vancouver Aug. 1 as full-time secretary for the Canadian Airline Flight Attendants' Association, a national organization.

After several years as B.C. representative for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers, he resigned last year to resume work with Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

He polled 271 votes against 84 for Thomas McGrath, financial secretary of the Ironworkers' Local 97, at the federation's annual convention which wound up yesterday in Vancouver.

Mr. Smeal succeeds William Black, head of the hospital employees' union, who announced at the start of the convention that he would not run again.

The new president said he was taking office when labor is facing its most difficult problems in years.

Born in England in 1920, Mr. Smeal came to Canada with his parents in 1928. He has lived in B.C. for the last 23 years.

BUS DRIVER

He has been a bus driver, served in the Canadian navy as an able seaman for five years, then spent 10 years in the trade movement with the brotherhood.

He has been vice-president of the federation since its formation four years ago and before that was an executive for several years in the old Canadian Congress of Labor Federation in B.C.

River Towns On Columbia Adopt Escort

TRAIL (CP)—HMCS Columbia, the newest unit in Canada's modern anti-submarine fleet, will be adopted by municipalities located on the banks of the river for which it is named.

Official invitations have been sent to civic organizations in cities, towns and villages along the Columbia asking them to attend the destroyer's commissioning Nov. 7 at Burrard Dry Dock in Vancouver.

The proposal that the destroyer be adopted was advanced several months ago by local branches of the Navy League of Canada and the Naval Officers' Association.

SAVAGE BLIZZARDS STAGGER PRAIRIES

Grain Crop Loss Goes Into Millions

EDMONTON (CP)—Million-dollar grain crop losses . . . crippled highway construction programs . . . traffic snarls and a thousand minor auto accidents.

And the havoc wreaked by two early blizzards was growing as the second swept into Saskatchewan Friday night after striking Alberta.

Manitoba, already staggered by up to 20 inches of snow, awaited the second storm with a shudder. It was expected to reach the province tonight.

BELOW FREEZING

The blizzards came in below-freezing weather and were accompanied by 35-mile-an-hour winds. Only the extreme southern areas of the Prairies escaped their force.

The first storm petered out in Manitoba Thursday. The second blew over Alberta Friday.

LOOKS LIKE WINTER

"If this is winter, and it looks like it is, it will be spring before any more threshing is possible," a United Grain Growers crop report said Friday.

At least 100,000,000 bushels of grain, including 70,000,000 bushels of wheat, were buried under snow in Saskatchewan after a storm that began Wednesday.

In northern and western Alberta, only 40 per cent of the grain crop had been threshed in many areas.

FINAL BLOW

The storms were the culminating blow to harvesting and highway construction—both lagging because of wet, cold, late summer weather.

Highways Minister Gordon Taylor of Alberta said the storm has dealt a death blow to much of this year's program, already 30 per cent behind.

MOTORISTS WARNED

Police in all three provinces urged motorists to stay put until snowbound highways could be cleared and icy streets sanded.

In Manitoba, 150 cars were reported stalled in the Carberry Hills between Brandon and Macgregor on the Trans-Canada Highway. Motel and hotels were jammed with travellers and truck drivers caught by the storm.

NO DEATHS

At Friday noon, no deaths or serious injuries had been attributed to the storm but at least one tragedy had been narrowly averted.

In Brandon, where 20 inches fell, the roof of a 10-room school collapsed. The pupils had been given the day off because of a teachers' meeting Thursday and no one was injured.

Traffic in Edmonton, Saskatchewan and Winnipeg was tied up and trucks, buses and cars on the highways were forced off the road.

NOT DISTURBED

Rail and airline schedules were not seriously disturbed. The storms, unusually severe for early October, did the most damage to the crops, however.

In Saskatchewan, officials said there was little likelihood that any of the 70,000,000 bushels of unharvested grain would reach the granaries before spring. The loss in Grade A yields would be from 15 to 20 per cent, even with ideal spring conditions.

The Alberta Wheat Pool, in a report issued before the snowstorm, said the wheat crop situation in the province was critical—with 36 per cent unharvested because of poor weather.

UN to Rush Tibet Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—After a bitter clash between Russia and the United States, the General Assembly's steering committee Friday night agreed to set up a quick United Nations debate on charges of Chinese Communist oppression in Tibet.

Heroic Boy, Cab Driver Saved Kassem's Life

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraqi authorities say a young boy and a cab driver saved Premier Abdel Karim Kassem from assassination.

Assailants fired at Kassem with machine-guns Wednesday as he rode his daily ride down Baghdad's crowded main street. The revolutionary leader suffered three wounds. Radio Baghdad reported that the first burst of fire killed the premier's driver.

Jaycee Past Presidents Gather

Ike Moves to End U.S. Steel Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—With union and industry hopelessly deadlocked, President Eisenhower Friday set in motion legal machinery to temporarily end the U.S. steel strike, now 87 days old.

"If permitted to continue, this strike would imperil the national health and safety," Eisenhower said in a statement announcing his action. The president named a three-man fact-finding panel.

See story on Page 26 and instructed it to report to him by Oct. 16—a week from Friday.

Since Eisenhower must have this report before he can seek a strike-ending court injunction under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law, the walkout may last at least another week and perhaps several days longer.

The court order would send the steel workers back to work for 80 days. Unless a settlement is reached during this "cooling off" period, there is nothing to keep the strike from resuming—unless the government takes action.

Shot Hits Man, Rat

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said Friday a storekeeper apparently killed a rat with a small-calibre rifle.

The bullet went through the rat and a tarpaper partition and hit the man standing in an adjoining vacant lot. No names were released.

Owner's Dignity Lost In Lost Puppy Hunt

ORILLIA (CP)—To make it clear from the beginning, the lost brown puppy did not run under the house.

But Mrs. Mary Ball, 45, who spotted it outside of her home Thursday, was sure that it did. She enlisted the aid of her neighbors in digging a tunnel big enough to crawl through. And she crawled through it.

Few minutes later she called out the puppy wasn't there and she was coming out.

Seconds later she called out again: "I'm stuck."

Her neighbors phoned the police.

After some squirming, an officer managed to get a grip on one of the lady's legs.

He started to pull Mrs. Ball called out again. The lady was modest.

The police went away. Mrs. Ball, somewhat loosened, gingerly backed out.

The puppy?

They found it under a chestfield in Mrs. Ball's home.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I have a passion for word games. I love them all — Ghost, and Categories, and Scrabble, and cryptograms, and that inexhaustible game that's just known as "the word game" in our family. (It's played by two people. Each draws a five-by-five blank square for 25 letters. Then they alternately call out letters to put in until the whole square is filled. A five-letter word counts 10, a four-letter word counts five, and a three-letter word three. No diagonals, no overlapping words. Loads of fun.)

Last night we somehow fell to making words of four letters or more out of the word "concertina." Altogether, the family came up with 130 different words, among them such dillies as "accretion," "conceit," "clair," "ancient," "oceanic" and "cornice." (Any one who can beat our record, please communicate.)

Then there are those wonderful English crossword puzzles that come in the little yellow Penguin books. They're quite unlike ours, full of puns and anagrams, and tough as all getout. ("A royal city in Czechoslovakia" is "O'sio,"

G. E. Mortimore
On Vacation,
Back Oct. 21

which is found in the word "Czechoslovakia." "Strap torn in ecstasy" is the clue for "transport" — an anagram of "transport" meaning "ecstasy." "Polo was the end of him" refers to "Marco." "In this task Einstein failed" hides the solution "stein." "Fearless Indian" means "Brave.")

We're Both Champions

Then, of course, there's Scrabble. My wife and I play a lot, and we both consider ourselves champions. There's very little we don't know about those handy little words like "it" (musical note), "em" (printer's measure), "od" (spiritual force), or "wy" (name of the letter Y). With us, two or three seven-letter words in a game are just about par. We usually play a combined score in the 600s and 700s and have gone beyond the 800 mark a number of times.

I often wonder about those ingenious people who gave us cryptograms, crossword puzzles and Scrabble. I don't know who invented cryptograms, and I understand the name of the originator of crosswords is also lost to history.

(It's a well-known fact, though, that crossword puzzles started the publishing house of Simon & Schuster on the road to fame and fortune.)

But the man who gave us Scrabble is known to live a happy existence in Newtown, Conn. where he manufactures plastic sets. I'm sorry I can't think of his name right now, but I do want to say publicly that I'm sincerely grateful to him. For my money, he's done more to benefit mankind than lots of famous people I could name.

Sinatra Chases Hit-Runner, Driver Flees 'Holdup Man'

HOLLYWOOD — Frank Sinatra chased a motorist at speeds up to 60 miles an hour after his $11,000 foreign-made convertible was dented in a minor collision.

The actor-singer broadcast pleas for help over his radio-telephone as he pursued a car driven by James Donald Kykendahl after the accident near the Beverly Hills Hotel. Kykendahl told police he thought Sinatra was a holdup man. Kykendahl, wildly blowing his car horn, drove up to a police station. Police said Sinatra told him Kykendahl backed into his 1959 Dual Ghia convertible and then, when the singer stepped out, nearly ran over him speeding away.

At first he demanded that Kykendahl be arrested, but later he said to "forget the whole thing."

HOLLYWOOD — Elizabeth Taylor's refusal to play a lady of easy virtue in "Butterfield 8" cost her $1,000,000 and a warning from her studio she may be banned from the screen for two years.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Gov. Edmund Brown set a clemency hearing for convict author Caryl Chessman over the protests of Chessman himself, who attacked governor's "motives." He's scheduled to die Oct. 23 after 11 years in "death row."

ROME — Church authorities have forbidden the playing of one of Mario Lanza's recordings at the tenor's funeral.

VATICAN CITY — Pope John XXIII, dressed in the deep red garments of papal mourning, led 20,000 people in St. Peter's Basilica in a sorrowful ceremony commemorating the death of Pope Pius XII one year ago.

NEW YORK — Two Philadelphia, Samuel Feldman and Rudolf Bregman, were convicted of conspiracy to transport and sell part of $1,800,000 in municipal bonds stolen in Montreal in January, 1958.

'Addicts Get Caught, Sellers Wealthy'

VANCOUVER (CP)—"The jury over there would never understand it," a tired, greying 36-year-old narcotic addict told Vancouver assize court. "Even the judge himself hardly knows anything about drugs. They look at us like we are a bunch of fiends. But it all depends on the way you are made up..."

"The main men have no trouble making $7,000 and $10,000 a week and they are seldom caught. They drive big cars and take long holidays." The words came quietly Thursday from Edward Bordenick, who said he has been an addict since he was 16. He was conducting his own defence on a charge of possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking. He was later convicted with two others and remanded for sentence.

At the same time, at a Rotary luncheon in nearby New Westminster, Senator Tom Reid was saying:

"Weak magistrates and weak policemen are responsible for the high percentage of drug addicts in cities. It is an illness and a disease. It is also a provincial responsibility."

Vancouver, in the formal procedure of the courts and the easy atmosphere of community organizations, continues to ponder its narcotics problem.

Officials estimate drug addicts steal $1,000,000 annually from retailers to pay for their next "fix."

Vancouver has about 1,500 known drug addicts, highest of any Canadian city. Bordenick denied that he intended to sell 500 capsules of heroin found in his possession and said he stole the drugs from a cache up an East-end alley for his own use.

"I have never given anyone their first fix and I wouldn't do it, because I know what I would be letting them in for."

Toll-Free Day Asked For Liberals

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett has been asked to honor a Liberal rally by declaring a toll-free day on British Columbia's bridges and the Deas Island Tunnel.

Vaughn Lyon, Liberal candidate for Vancouver Burrard in the next provincial election, asked for the toll-free day Oct. 13, the day new leader Ray Perrault is introduced at a Liberal rally here.

He said the Social Credit government removed tolls for one day to publicize its claim to retirement of the province's net debt and "to rekindle some enthusiasm in the ranks of Social Credit party members."

The British Election

IF the return of the Macmillan government in Great Britain was not unexpected—the odds had been better than fifty-fifty in its favor—the size of the election victory was a signal one. For the third time in succession the Conservatives have increased their parliamentary majority, and now command the House with a margin of over 100 seats.

For the Labor party this is tantamount to a smashing defeat. Some overseas observers foresee the decline of Labor politically as a result, which may be exaggerating the picture. Yet in all British parliamentary history—although Labor has only been a factor in this century—there have been only four Labor administrations, with a total of nine years in office. The peak of its influence could have passed, and ironically because of measures it introduced.

The welfare state has blunted the sharp division between poverty and plenty; there are no poor any more in the former sense. Britain is now prosperous, also, and society is thereby being leavened. More and more the situation has become one of political ideology, of the right and the left, so that living conditions are not the criterion. As people prosper their socialist instincts shrink.

The Conservative landslide victory is nevertheless a personal victory for Prime Minister Macmillan, who has lifted his party from the doldrums of the Suez episode and demonstrated British leadership on the international level. There can be no doubt this restored pride in a nation which for a century and more led the world in so many ways. The divisions in the Labor party over the nuclear bomb, and the suspicion of softness towards the Soviet Union, also played their part in the unmistakable rebuke the electors have given.

On the world scene the Conservative victory means a continuance of the policies highlighted by Mr. Macmillan's summit aspirations. Britain's Western allies will view this with reassurance, as implying close co-operation with the United States in the search for enduring peace. The Labor party also stood for easement of the cold war, but along lines less consistent with present allied policy. Canada will share in the general satisfaction that things will go on as before.

One notes with pleasure the return once more to Parliament of Sir Winston Churchill. The illustrious former prime minister takes no leading part in government now, but his constituents did themselves honor by ensuring that this venerable and historic figure should remain in the institution he has served so magnificently—the Mother of Parliaments.

Curfew Worth a Trial

THE more the city authorities discuss the 9.30 p.m. curfew bylaw the more sensible this unused and often sneered-at piece of civic legislation appears to be. Its detractors were a little too quick to dismiss it as unworkable simply because universal enforcement would require the services of a far bigger police force than the taxpayers could afford.

There is no need for uniform enforcement; and no one has suggested anything so silly. Judiciously invoked, however, the curfew could be made to work very effectively, with little more effort on the part of police patrols than is employed now in keeping an eye on youngsters who frequent the streets after dark. As this paper pointed out a few days ago, the curfew could be held as a trump card up the sleeves of police officers, to be brought out as a means of clearing the streets of young loiterers apparently up to no good but against whom there was no evidence available to support more specific charges.

The stand-by charge of vagrancy serves much the same purpose in the case of certain adults. The police in most countries commonly fall back on it when necessary, and no one thinks any the worse of them for that.

The police here have more than once acknowledged a sense of frustration when it comes to dealing with the problem of young boys and girls not under proper parental control at night. Yet all the time they have had at their disposal in the curfew bylaw the very authority that might do the trick.

The police can make of the curfew just what they choose to make of it. They can turn it into something ludicrous by arresting decent youngsters on their way home from the library or the YMCA; or they can employ it reasonably and sensibly as a means of keeping improperly supervised children out of trouble and of compelling parents to accept neglected responsibilities. Why not give it a fair trial?

Vague and Indecisive

FINANCE Minister Fleming's statement of the monetary policies of the federal government this week has added little of a conclusive nature to continuing debate. In three such explanations, including that outlining his budget, Mr. Fleming has left a nebulous impression on those who look to the administration for a lead in the financial problems of the nation. On Thursday, the finance minister made five points; three denying that the government had recanted its anti-inflation stand, that inflation would bring lower interest rates, or that the treasury was responsible for the tight money situation prevailing. Denials do not clarify policy.

On the positive side, Mr. Fleming said it would be the policy of the government "to move toward a situation where it will require no new borrowings from the market;" and that, in his belief, the gross natural product would exceed his budget estimation of it by the end of this year. How does a nation, with a complicated pattern of debt retirement immediately ahead, "move towards a situation" where it will require no new (net) borrowings? Mr. Fleming did not indicate. So his affirmation of an anti-inflation stand—with which most thinking people agree—and this new concept of balanced borrowings stand as the substance of his speech. Unfortunately Mr. Fleming did not show how either aim is to be obtained.

Interpreting the News

Trans-Border Controls

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress is cautiously exploring possible Canadian effects of new United States legislation putting clamps on labor leaders.

Whether the Congressional legislation can stretch across the border in the case of international unions is a point which the Congress leaders want to take up with the Canadian government.

Congress officials said that they are trying to get a meeting with Justice Minister Fulton for an interpretation of the U.S. law as it might apply to Canadian branches of U.S.-based international unions.

The meeting was expected to be held next week. Meanwhile, the Congress has not been dealing either with the external affairs department or Labor Minister Starr.

The U.S. legislation—one of the most controversial issues before the recent session of Congress—places stringent controls on unions, largely stemming from Congressional committee disclosures of illegal action in a small number of unions within the U.S.

From the Canadian standpoint, this could involve the right of perhaps 900,000 Canadian members of international unions to elect the officers of their choice and otherwise run union business without reference to United States statutes.

It brings up the old question of how autonomous are the autonomous Canadian segments of United States-based international unions.

In Toronto, I. M. Casey Dodds, Canadian chief of the Teamsters' Union, said Canadian unionists are up in arms over demands from their U.S. head offices that they comply with sections of the U.S. legislation.

He said that this is one of the unions that has asked Canadian locals to comply with a section of the act dealing with the right of officers to hold office.

These Metal Ants

Choking the Highways

By CASSANDRA, from London

NO government takes a really long view of our national affairs for the simple selfish reason that every five years governments may die a sudden death if a crisis doesn't kill them off earlier.

So the essential 10 to 50-year long-range view is extremely rare. No government has ever fiercely tackled the road problem in Great Britain. But the steel, petrol, rubber and concrete menace is right with us. The giant motor corporations are churning out hundreds of thousands of vehicles every year and with the advent of the 4500 cars (and very soon the 5000 cars) the roads and countryside will be black and blocked with the choked lines of these metal ants.

The advent of the railways, over a hundred years ago, saw an astonishing activity in civil engineering. Spades and buckets and muscle power opened up the whole country in a space of less than 25 years.

Now with vast earth-moving machinery at our disposal we are making nothing like a comparable effort. The weekends, which used to be a time to get out into the fresh open air, are now becoming a time to stay at home, pull down the blinds and watch the telly.

THE competition between nationalized gas and nationalized electricity has often mystified me.

Persuasive and costly advertisements proclaim the virtues of one over the other and the result; the Therm and the Volt have become deadly enemies.

The customers are urged that each is superior to the other and that in cleanliness and cost the gasometer is a better source than the power station—and vice versa.

Since the customer is also the owner of both these sources of light, heat and power, these conflicting claims add up to a state of affairs where the victor is also the loser and the loser is also the victor.

Now comes a new crazy complication. Sir Harold Smith, who is the retiring chairman of the Gas Council, has announced that a National gas grid could supply all the country's needs without using a single ounce of coal.

The gas would be obtained from carbonizing plants, oil, coke ovens, methane and natural gas imported from abroad in liquid form. This last method is already in action and it looks as if it is cheaper to import a liquid gas all the way from the United States than to extract it from the billions of tons of coal that lie at our feet.

By sheer technical ingenuity we have reached the point where we are pricing our largest and most valuable raw material out of the market.

Mr. Therm, Mr. Volt and Old King Coal are, in Sean O'Casey's famous words, "in a terrible state of chassis."

THERE is much wry fun here at the pronouncement from Detroit heralding the new, small cars from that automotive city. It says that in view of the reduced cost they will free the American housewife from "the thrall of a single car household."

A nation, in desperate circumstances—down to their last car in every garage.

Gerald Waring

Reports from Spain

(Editor's Note: The new look about the Franco dictatorship in Spain is that it has become almost a dictatorship by concept. Ottawa columnist Gerald Waring reports from Madrid in this first of three articles on "Spain Today.")

MADRID—A dictatorship Franco's Spain may be, but Spain today does not look like or feel like a dictatorship.

There is an absence of fear. People talk freely despite notices in some bars that political arguments are forbidden. Spaniards tend to make light of the ubiquitous Guardia Civil, the federal police, calling them "airplanes" because of their ridiculous Napoleonic hats of black patent leather. And most important, there is nothing here like the inhuman bending of the individual to the service of the state that I have seen behind the Communist curtain.

This is still a fascist-type, one-party state, but the kinship is with the Italy in which Mussolini made the trains run on time, rather than Nazi Germany of racial and military fanaticism.

At its present level of political evolution—or mellowing, with the blood bath of the Civil War 20 years past—Spain is like an old-fashioned absolute monarchy, its government autocratic yet paternal.

Officially it is a monarchy—that is one of its many political contradictions. But the Kingdom of Spain lacks a crowned sovereign.

Officially the more than 30,000 Spaniards enjoy personal and political liberties flowing from the Spanish Bill of Rights of 1931. But in fact those liberties may be exercised only if they do not imperil the unity of the state—and the government is the sole judge of that.

For example, a police permit is required for a meeting of more than 20 persons; the Cortes (parliament) meets only a day or two twice a year to rubber-stamp the decrees of the Franco regime, and the Spanish press is careful not to question the rightness of the government's actions.

The Packsack

This Is Progress?

By GREGORY CLARK

SOME years ago, when industry was really becoming streamlined, they invented this screw with a square hole in its head instead of the old familiar slot. This was a wonderful boon to mass production. The electric screw drivers being operated by the human monkeys clambering all over the production line could grip this square hole without a fraction of the slipping, side-skidding and burring that used to take place with the old-fashioned screw with its simple slot. Experts were able to calculate just how many more screws per man hour could be spun home by this new device than by the old type. A good mechanic could operate almost with his eyes shut.

But how about us poor consumers? I wonder how many million old-fashioned screwdrivers lie rusting and forgotten in how many million cellars and back sheds? The most frustrating thing in the world is to get the screwdriver, one of the universal tools of mankind, and bend down to the loose screw only to find one of those little square holes looking you in the eye.

For its convenience, modern industry now obliges us all to have not one screw driver but four. If you try to get by with one square-headed screwdriver, as you could, in a pinch, with only one old-fashioned screwdriver, you find that the screw you have to tighten is another size.

And incidentally, if you do how to progress and buy yourself the four assorted square headed ones and put them all together in the usual receptacle down cellar or in the kitchen drawer, it is always the one that fits that is missing. I admit the old-fashioned screwdrivers also used to go missing. But you could make do with a knife blade, the end of a bottle opener or the tip of a pair of scissors. There is however nothing around the house now that serves as a substitute tool for a square-headed screw.

Washington Angle

Man-to-Man Diplomacy

By MARQUIS CHILDS

UNTIL Britain settles down after Thursday's elections and President Eisenhower returns from his rest cure, there can be no serious consideration of when a summit meeting should be held.

The president is expected to carry on a personal exchange of letters with General de Gaulle, president of France, on the terms and circumstances of a summit meeting. It is regarded as unlikely by top officials here that it can come before the first of the year because of the need of co-ordinating closely with America's allies.

On the other hand, everyone from Secretary of State Herter on down is keenly aware of the fragile nature of the agreement reached between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev. There is real concern that an incident—a fire-eating speech out of the Pentagon for example—could disrupt or even destroy what was achieved in the Camp David talks. The pressure consequently is to get on with the job and advance to a second state with specific agreement on Berlin underwritten by all four powers.

Herter and State Department policy-makers are aware, too, of how short a time remains to make use of what they regard as one of the nation's greatest assets. This is President Eisenhower's personal appeal to peoples everywhere and their leaders. Little more than nine months remain before the politics of 1960 dominate the American scene and the president will already stand in the shadow of retirement. In the six months he has been secretary of state, Herter has built heavily on this asset. He was the chief inspirer and planner of the president's European tour.

It was after the first session of the Geneva foreign minister's meeting had ended in deadlock that the decision was taken to invite Khrushchev to visit America.

Herter expressed to Eisenhower the opinion that little was likely to result when the talks were resumed at Geneva. He also was of the opinion that the danger of war, whether by design or accident in the Berlin crisis, was far greater than the public in this country or anywhere in the West understood. Therefore, it was essential to take some move which would keep the negotiations going and a visit to the United States by Khrushchev seemed the surest means.

While there were some sharp differences expressed with complete frankness, the Khrushchev-Eisenhower talks were a conspicuous success. They established an understanding between the two men, and this must be used in the months ahead to establish a firm foundation on which Eisenhower's successor can continue the prolonged negotiations for settlement of the outstanding issues of the cold war.

This is the view that Herter has stressed to his associates in all discussion of what comes next. It seemed to him justification of his conviction of the importance of the president having personal and private talks not only with Khrushchev but other world leaders. Herter's predecessor, John Foster Dulles, always held the opposite view and opposed such personal meetings.

The earnest hope is that the asset of the president's personal appeal will be used in a visit to Pakistan and India and perhaps at the same time to Iran before he leaves office. The difficulty is, of course, that when it is indicated he may visit one capital the pressure to go to a dozen others is immediately great.

In his private talks with both Adenauer and de Gaulle in the late summer the president achieved more in understanding than could have been done in months of ordinary diplomatic exchange. This is Herter's deep conviction, and he is determined now that the forward motion given by the series of visits that began on August 26 in Germany shall be translated into formal agreement.

One of the presents Khrushchev brought Eisenhower was a double-barrelled shotgun of Russian make which the Soviet premier claimed was superior to the finest British shotgun that hunters the world over have long prized.

Half humorously, half solemnly, as he presented the present Khrushchev said that this was the only kind of gun which should be left in the world—one for the pleasure of hunters.

This curiously-touching scene between the Ukrainian peasant and the boy who grew up in a small Kansas town, now each the head of one of the world's two great power centres, may in the continuing power struggle mean less than nothing. But those who witnessed it could not help but hope that it signified a small base of understanding on which future negotiations can be built.

Sheep, Beware

Of late there has been a certain amount of news regarding the B.C. Federation of Labor decision to throw its 120,000 membership to support the cause of the C.C.F. party in the next provincial election. Now really, isn't this a fine upstanding exhibition of loyalty to the party? Just think of it: $1 and one vote from each member, all for the benefit of better politics. What a truly magnificent gesture.

Yet who is really going to benefit from just such a move? The poor downtrodden masses who are enjoying an unprecedented high standard of living? I wonder. And this hoped-for $120,000 donation from the membership, just what will this be used for?

However, what really bothers me is the very idea of a relatively small group of men having the utter audacity to suggest that they can control who votes for who. Unfortunately, this is very likely true, but I suggest that they are overstepping their confidence by admitting such a thing.

But then we are all mature, well-educated people in this country, and of course we would never allow such a thing as having anyone tell us what to do. Would we? Our leaders are all kindly, benevolent men who are only interested in the welfare of the public. Aren't they?

Just a word of caution to the sheep: Beware lest the shepherd fleeces you just before a cold winter.

CHRISTOPHER JOHN.

1736 Hampshire Road.

Criminal Neglect

May I congratulate The Daily Colonist on the sound editorial entitled "Licences to Kill."

Last year this society urged that the provincial government consider immediately the introduction of more stringent regulations which would include a form of test which every hunter would be required to pass before being issued with a licence. Another suggestion of this society was that these licences should be administered in the same way as is a driving licence, and endorsed, suspended or withdrawn entirely if the holder commits an offence or contravenes the regulations under which the permit is issued.

Finally this society urged that the wounding or killing of a human being should be considered an offence in exactly the same way it would be if any person negligently killed a pedestrian with a motor vehicle. For any hunter to discharge a lethal rifle without knowing not only that he was shooting at an animal but that there was no possible danger to any human being, is surely neglect of the worst possible kind.

The alternative to regulation is, sooner or later, total abolition.

For years, magistrates, gun clubs and other interested organizations, have endorsed publicly the views expressed above, either in part or in full, but nothing is ever done. I urge, therefore, the provincial government game and recreation department to meet immediately with representatives of sportsmen's organizations and consider this problem. This society would be glad to attend such a meeting representing the vast majority of people who never fire any gun at all.

Musical Pictures Marvellous

Electrifying Sounds By Martin Denny

By BERT BINNY

"In our music," says Martin Denny, "we stress the melodic content and add rhythmic highlights on instruments belonging to different cultures."

It was exactly what Mr. Denny and his group of amazingly talented musicians did last night at the Royal Theatre. But the effect is electrifying.

ALL THE COLOR

The Martin Denny Group creates marvellous musical pictures. A train chugging through the jungles of Burma, a Hawaiian wedding or all the color of Manhattan are reproduced with sincerity.

Apart from standard instruments such as piano, drums and bass, they utilize upwards of 50 different effects such as whistles, rattles, Japanese glass and bamboo chimes, toy bells, hand bells, Japanese bells, bongos and congas. Their latest recruit, Frank Kim, has also added the "salmesen," light-hearted referred to as the "three-stringed ukelele of the Far East."

NO BIRDS

Nor should the wondrous bird calls of August Colon be forgotten. "He has calls," said Martin Denny, "for which we have no birds."

Among the items receiving that distinctive and completely delightful Denny treatment were such well known ones as "Laura," "Dites-moi," "March of the Siamese Children," "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue," "Firecrackers" and "Quiet Village." The performance of the "Hawaiian Wedding Song" will take a long, long time to forget.

Along with Martin Denny and Frank Kim were Julius Wechter, Harvey Ragsdale and the energetic Mr. Colon who darted from instrument to instrument untiringly.

BESSIE BRADDOCK
... majority shrinks

Expectant Mother, Cigar-Puffer

Women Candidates Spiced U.K. Vote

LONDON (Reuters)—One woman politician who is not sure whether to be glad or sorry because she failed to win a seat for the Conservatives is Elizabeth Havers, whose first baby was due election day.

At 26 the youngest woman parliamentary candidate, Miss Havers, a lawyer like her husband, Joseph Cross, was philosophic about her defeat and about the lateness of the stork.

"I suppose it would have been a bit tricky dividing my time between Parliament and the nursery," she told a reporter.

FEWER RUN

This election 81 women were in the running—11 fewer than in 1955.

Among those eliminated were two well-known Labor MPs, Mrs. Lena Jeger and Miss Elaine Burton.

Although not always successful against men, women candidates added some spice to the campaign.

CIGAR-SMOKER

But cigar-smoking Miss Joan Vickers, 52, whose blue-rinsed hair and fancy hats made some party workers nervous, boosted her Conservative majority in Devonport from 100 at the last election to 6,454.

"Battling Bessie" Braddock, the 60-year-old 210-pounder who has held a Liverpool constituency since 1945, saw her previous majority shrink from 7,186 to 897.

The only woman Communist candidate, Miss Annie Powell, got more votes in her Welsh constituency than the Conservative or Welsh Nationalist candidates but was 15,000 votes behind Labor.

Rings, White Gills and Cups Mushroom Poison Signals

It's mushroom time again in Victoria and provincial botanist Dr. Adam Szczawinski yesterday had some advice destined to avoid tummy-aches.

He said there had been no reports yet in Victoria this year of mushroom poisoning, but four people are recovering from mushroom poisoning in Nelson and there was one fatal case attributed to mushrooms in Eastern Canada.

He pointed out there is a wide variety of edible mushrooms, but said, "My advice is that those who don't know much about mushrooms should avoid the whole group having white gills and/or a ring under the cap or a cup at the base of the stem."

He said that that would eliminate the fatal group of mushrooms found in this area.

Amateurs, he said, "should pick only mushrooms with black, brown or pinkish gills."

He explained that while not all of these are safe, it would eliminate the fatal group here.

Vanquished Labor Faces Internal Fight

By F. S. MANOR
(Special to the Colonist)

LONDON—Planes chartered by Conservative headquarters Friday were tracing the word "Hurray" in the cloudless London skies, but the jubilation was not confined to the Tory party alone.

The Liberals were exultant even though by late Friday night they still had only five seats.

"This is the beginning of the end of British socialism," I was told at Liberal headquarters, where latest figures showed that the party took three votes from Labor for every one taken from the Conservatives.

BICKERING STARTS

The bickering that has already broken out within Labor party ranks is of course, strengthening the Liberal hope of being able to provide next time an alternative government. Above all, the Liberals expect the return into the fold of those moderate radicals who had left the Liberal party in the 30s to join Labor.

At Labor headquarters in Transport House the left wing has already begun its attack on the policies of party leader Hugh Gaitskell. The leftwingers are also objecting to the executive's plan for an early conference that would review the election and include a vote of confidence of the way things have been handled. The men of the left claim that a demand for a vote of confidence so soon after defeat would be disastrous.

They also object to the middle-class aspect that the present Labor party leadership has given itself, a face which they allege is disliked by the traditional Labor voter.

At any rate Labor plans to spend some $30,000 on a survey to find out what kind of people refused to vote for Labor and why the polls are once again coming into their own.

DISLIKED FACE

Meanwhile, both Paris and Bonn have welcomed the re-election of the Macmillan government.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has announced that he will be coming to London in December when as he said the remaining differences between Cmdr. C. E. M. Donaldson, victorious Conservative candidate in the Scottish riding of Roxburgh, Selkirk and Peebles in Thursday's British elections, is a former B.C. man.

He served in the Royal Canadian Navy at Esquimalt during the Second World War.

Liberal Ludovic Kennedy, husband of dancer Moira Shearer and aide-de-camp to the governor-general of Newfoundland in 1942, was defeated in Rochdale.

Tory Victory Pleases U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Administration officials yesterday greeted with diplomatically restrained pleasure Prime Minister Macmillan's smashing British election victory over the Labor party.

While publicly neutral, they made clear they felt it would be easier to continue working with Macmillan's Conservative party as the Western Allies head toward a mid-winter summit meeting with Russia.

Joint Police-Fire Hall In Cards for Saanich

A common new "home" is in the cards for police and firemen of Saanich, it was disclosed yesterday.

Plans for a single headquarters building to house both of the municipality's emergency forces are in their early stages, but may be achieved within the next two years.

Action was indicated by the recent sale of Saanich municipal yard on Douglas Street, which includes the present run-down No. 1 firehall.

FIREMEN OUT

Since firemen have to be out of that building by December, 1961, and since Saanich police are at present crowded at Royal Oak headquarters municipal officials and commissioners have decided that Consumers Block Exports to U.K.?

Butter Battle Churns

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has under active consideration urgent requests from British butter dealers that some of Canada's surplus butter be sold over there.

But at the moment informed sources say it would be unwise to make any bets on what the final decision will be.

Should it be in favor of sending butter to Britain, however, the amount likely would run from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 pounds.

Possibly the main consideration now in the government's mind is the effect such a sale would have in Canada.

The quickest way to do this would be for the government to switch its support policy for butter to a deficiency payment, instead of buying it as it does now at a floor price of 64 cents a pound.

The government would have to sell the butter it paid 64 cents a pound for at something like 50 cents a pound. Recent London prices for butter from Poland, New Zealand, Denmark, The Netherlands and Australia ranged from 44 to 53 cents.

The Canadian Association of Consumers, for one, takes strong objection to any such action. Comments Isabel Atkinson of Ottawa, association national president: "We are still opposed to policies that involve the disposal anywhere abroad at prices below that charged Canadian consumers. We feel the surplus is the result of a price support that is unduly high. The consumer suffers at both tax-paying and butter-buying ends."

Since Separated by Surgery

Stubblefield Twins Defy Odds, Improve

PORTLAND (AP)—The Stubblefield Siamese twins clung amazingly to life yesterday, three days after being separated by surgery.

Doctors feared Thursday only one could survive but now they hope both will live, since they have gone through the critical 48 hours following the operation.

Doctors despaired for the life of Jeanett Kim Thursday as her tiny lungs filled with fluid and she lacked the strength to cough it out.

Attendants were able to take much of the fluid out with tubes, meanwhile pumping oxygen in.

Within hours after the doctors had reported she was sinking fast, the three-month-old girl was rallying.

"It's almost a miracle," said one of the doctors.

Joseph J. Adams, University of Oregon medical school public relations director, reported she had another relapse Thursday night, but again rallied. She got some sleep and yesterday showed more reaction to things around her.

Her twin sister, Denett Linn, continued to improve slowly. She took some milk eagerly Thursday, but her reaction to it distended her abdomen and she was back on intravenous feeding yesterday.

The girls were joined in the abdomen from breastbone to navel when born at Nyssa,

River Talks Satisfactory

OTTAWA (CP)—Weeklong Canadian-American talks on boundary water problems ended here Friday with "quite satisfactory progress" reported on Columbia River development.

However, at the insistence of United States representatives on the International Joint Commission, the usual concluding communique was withheld until next Tuesday.

Reds Develop 'Steel' Glass

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet scientists have developed a glass microcrystalline material harder than steel, lighter than aluminum and capable of withstanding 1,832 degree temperatures, Tass news agency reports.

The new substance, named Sital, will be used for ball-bearings, frictional components and fireproof walls.

a joint headquarters is a logical step.

It would be in line with Saanich council's policy of "streamlining" municipal services to reduce costs and increase efficiency.

Municipal comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said yesterday there still weren't any answers to two main questions: Where would the new joint hall be? And how much would it cost?

Of the first, he said several sites were in council's mind, but must await further study. Of the second, he could not venture a guess.

"More replacement of the outmoded existing firehall would cost about $70,000," he said, "but 'mere replacement' would not be enough. On top of that, heads of the two departments would have to submit their respective requirements."

Crash Victim 'Satisfactory'

John Forrester, 545 Transit, was reported in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital last night after receiving head injuries and a fractured ankle in a car-bicycle collision. The car was driven by James C. Kehoe, 213 Vancouver Street.

Railway Route Hearing

Surprise Evidence Protested by Lawyer

EDMONTON (CP)—A lawyer representing the British Columbia government told a royal commission studying proposed routes for a northern railway that the Edmonton and Calgary Chambers of Commerce were introducing "surprise" evidence at the hearings.

Arthur Fouks said it would be impossible for him to continue unless details of all evidence, not included in the briefs, were made available.

He accused the chambers of bringing in surprise evidence without first giving proponents of the Grimshaw route "sufficient opportunity to examine the material before presentation."

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice M. E. Manning of Edmonton, was set up by the federal government to decide on a route for the proposed railway into the Northwest Territories. Main southern terminals proposed are Grimshaw in the Peace River district and McMurray in northeastern Alberta.

Mr. Fouks asked that the hearings be adjourned to allow time for the acquisition and examination of all evidence.

Mr. Justice Manning, after a private discussion with Mr. Fouks and representatives of the chambers of commerce, adjourned hearings until next Wednesday.

More Needed In Recreation Premier Says

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Premier Bennett says the British Columbia government is well aware of the need for planned recreation in the province.

The premier said Thursday that with the government's large investment in schools, he feels facilities of the system should be used more for recreation.

He was commenting on a recreation brief presented on behalf of Burnaby, Coquitlam, Delta, Surrey and Richmond to the B.C. cabinet meeting here.

Requests in the brief included: Development of a cost-sharing formula for the construction of recreational facilities; inclusion of recreation facilities construction in the winter works program and extension of a recreational training course at University of B.C.

Ike's a Whiz In the Kitchen

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—President Eisenhower may not be Sam Sneed on the golf course but he's a whiz in the kitchen.

That word came Friday from several people who ate meals prepared by the No. 1 chef in the U.S. during the president's eight-day vacation at nearby La Quinta, he cooked every meal served at the George Allen home—23 in all.

His biggest dinner was an outdoor steak barbecue Sunday night when 14 guests showed up with desert appetites. One guest admitted that he had some misgivings about the cook's culinary skill.

"But," he commented, "it was one of the best steak dinners I have ever had. It's amazing to tell the president of the United States that you want your steak done medium rare—and even more amazing when it comes to the table just as you ordered it."

Thanksgiving Dedication Day

Special services in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday are planned in most Greater-Victoria churches tomorrow, highlighted by the dedication of the new Garden City United Church, Norwood and Carey Road.

Since 1957, services in the church have been conducted in the basement. Now, with completion of the building itself, the basement will be used for expansion of the Sunday school class, whose 200 members are currently crowded into the original frame building that has served since 1914 as the Garden City Methodist Church and later the Garden City United Church.

Rev. E. J. Staley, minister of the church, will be joined by Rev. A. I. Avery and Rev. A. Calder, president and secretary, respectively, of the Victoria Presbytery, who will preside at the dedication.

A joint choir from Wilkenson Road and Garden City United churches, under the direction of George Roberts, will sing at the services, which start at 3 p.m.

At Metropolitan United Church, Brother Mandus of the World Healing Crusade will complete his stay at the church by taking the morning service. The Rev. Dr. F. E. H. James speaks on "Practical Thanksgiving" at the evening service.

The second lecture in a series on Protestantism, "Cardinal Principles of Protestantism," will be given by Rev. A. I. Higgins at the evening service at First United Church. Following the service, the congregation is invited to the first Friendship Night of the season at the church fellowship hall, Balmoral Road.

Holy Communion services will be held at 8 and 9:30 a.m. at Christ Church Cathedral; and at 11:15 a.m. at James Bay Hall.

Brother Mandus will be guest speaker at St. John's Anglican Church for the 7:30 p.m. service. Holy Communion will be at 8 a.m., family service at 9:20 a.m.

At St. Peter's, Rev. A. W. Gollmer's text will be "In the Garden" at the 11 a.m. services.

Rev. Robert Holmes, pastor of Westboro Baptist Church, Ottawa, will be guest speaker at Central Baptist Church at 11 a.m., speaking on "A Call to Thanksgiving."

Regular morning service will be held at Emmanuel Baptist Church, but the evening service will be replaced by a family fireside at the Fellowship Hall.

In most cases, only regular services are scheduled on Thanksgiving Day itself. However, the Christian Scientists will hold a special service Monday at 11 a.m., and at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the Evangelistic Temple, a rally will be held with visiting preachers from all over British Columbia.

Churchmen Will Retire In 'Own' Town

REDLANDS, Calif. (UPI)—

Comfort, care and creativity will be stressed at Plymouth

Village, a planned community for 232 retired Protestant ministers, missionaries and youth workers.

Construction will begin next year on one-third of this haven for aged persons who have devoted at least half their adult lives to Christian work.

Within 10 years, the community is expected to spread over 16½ acres dotted with small homes, apartments, dining hall, cultural centre and recreation areas intermingled with flower gardens, trees and picnic grounds.

Low cost will be the byword at Plymouth Village, which will be a self-contained town operated on a non-profit basis. It will be patterned after Pilgrim Place, which was founded in 1915 and was the first retirement community of this type ever built.

Pilgrim Place, located in nearby Claremont in the Pomona Valley of Southern California, provides apartment living at costs from $25 to $40 a month while small homes rent for $50 to $80 a month.

BIG INVESTMENT

More than $1,500,000 will be invested in Plymouth Village for its elderly residents. They in turn are expected to increase the annual business of Redlands by about $160,000.

A life lease plan will allow those who can afford their own homes to build on empty lots and remain there for life. The homes will be furnished with kitchens to allow the residents to dine privately rather than use the facilities of the central dining hall.

Induction of Rector Set by Archbishop

The institution and induction of Rev. Canon F. C. Vaughan-Birch as rector in Patricia Bay and Sidney will be performed Sunday by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia.

The institution will take place at Holy Trinity Church, Patricia Bay, at 11 a.m., when the archbishop will celebrate the Holy Eucharist and preach the sermon.

Archbishop Sexton will also preach at the induction at St. Andrews Church, Sidney, at 7:30 p.m.

Canon Vaughan-Birch recently moved here from High River, Alta., where he had worked for 14 years. A new rectory is nearing completion at Sidney for Canon and Mrs. Vaughan-Birch.

The Courtroom Parade

'Mind Own Business'

Found guilty in city police court yesterday of assaulting a police officer, Waldemar Rose, Work Point, was remanded to Oct. 14 for a probation report and sentence.

Const. Russell Redman told the court that at about 12.10 a.m. Oct. 1 he had arrested a man for intoxication on Johnson between Broad and Douglas when Rose approached and offered to see that the man under arrest got safely home.

The constable asked him to move along, and after a brief discussion Rose slapped the officer on the cheek, then struck him in the mouth, opening a cut inside his lip.

Rose then ran, and the officer caught him on Johnson between Broad and Government.

After Rose told his story,

CENTO Nations Warn:

Mid-East Still 'Powder Keg'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Four key U.S. Allies in the Middle East wound up a formal conference yesterday by warning that the danger of Communist subversion remains acute in the powderkeg area.

A declaration by the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO) Council urged "constant vigilance" by the free world to counter threatening Red pressures.

The four nations—all members of the former Baghdad Pact—are Turkey, Pakistan, Iran and Britain. The United States has never formally joined the alliance but plays a prominent backstage role as an observer and assigns representatives to CENTO's committees.

The concluding statement said the CENTO Council, which met here for three days, felt the recent Eisenhower-Khrushchev meetings had brought about "the possibility of reducing some of the tension of the cold war by reopening negotiations on Berlin and disarmament."

But it added: "On the other hand, there remained deep-seated causes of anxiety and Communist activities continued unabated. The danger of subversion by foreign propaganda, for instance, remains particularly acute."

Bering Dam, Black 'Bergs Might Warm Arctic

Russian scientists are ready to dam the Bering Strait and paint all the icebergs in sight to improve the climate of the north, and weatherman William H. Mackie claims it just might work.

Mr. Mackie was commenting on a story out of Washington in which Russian engineers and scientists listed two ideas for improving the Arctic climate.

First, they would like to build a 53-mile dam across the Bering Strait, and with the use of atomic power, pump water by the thousands of miles from the warm Pacific side of the dam into the cold Arctic side.

"That might raise the temperature there by a degree or so," Mr. Mackie said last night. "Because the warmer the water the warmer the air masses above it. But it would depend on how much water they moved."

But the second plan, sounding strictly from Buck Rogers, is a matter of conjecture to both Mr. Mackie and most U.S. weathermen.

That one involves painting all the icebergs black so they will melt faster. Theory is that if the bergs are covered with a dark substance, they will beter absorb the sun's heat, melt faster, and make the climate of Siberia and northern China "milder and more humid."

However, Mr. Mackie and Dr. Harry Wexler, U.S. Weather Bureau scientist, claim there could be another, less pleasant effect.

"Changing the color of the ice surface would promote the melting all right," Mr. Mackie admitted. "It would also release more water in the air, and increase rain and snow-fall."

Mr. Wexler went further. He claimed that such a project would make the weather calamitously worse, and create "a new ice age." And, since we get air masses from the north in Victoria, what would happen here if the Russians go on their damming and painting spree? Fear not, says Mr. Mackie.

"At worst, it could only lower our temperature by one or two degrees."

Own Shelter

Reeve To Go Below

A man who is convinced that plans to evacuate Greater Victoria in face of an imminent nuclear attack will lead to "a shambles," is experimenting with a bomb shelter in his Esquimalt home.

Cmdr. A. C. Wurtele, 321 Plaskett Place, has spoken out strongly as reeve of Esquimalt against an evacuation policy for whole city populations.

REASONABLE COST

He believes that bomb shelters giving protection against blast and falling debris, and in event of a nuclear attack against fallout as well, could be built at a fairly reasonable cost in the home.

This would give badly-needed flexibility to civil defence plans, Reeve Wurtele said, and enable local authorities to make the final decision on whether the population should evacuate or take to the shelters.

BOMB SHELTER

The reeve plans to convert a stoutly-built room in the basement of his own waterfront home into a bomb shelter. The room is about 10 feet square with walls of reinforced concrete six inches thick. It was built originally as a "jam cupboard."

The room is set against an unexcavated portion of the basement at the rear of the house, where an outcropping of solid rock was left untouched.

EMERGENCY SUPPLIES

Conversion plans include strengthening of the ceiling, providing ventilation, and stocking the shelter with emergency supplies of food and fresh water to last at least 14 days.

The federal government, which had a policy of evacuation of all major Canadian cities, recently modified its views considerably and came out in favor of basement shelters in homes.

Sport Fishing Ban Imposed

A ban on all sport fishing in the tidal waters of Sooke River, effective midnight tonight until further notice, was announced yesterday by the department of fisheries.

Harry Burrows, fisheries inspector, said the ban covers all angling and trolling in areas 20 and is designed to ensure adequate escapement of spring and coho salmon to spawning grounds.

The ban covers tidal waters of the Sooke River, tributary to Sooke Harbor, and the line downstream from the confluence of Demanel Creek, marked by fishing boundary signs.

Protection and conservation methods were authorized by A. J. Whitmore, fisheries director for the Pacific region, and are part of the continuing program to build up the salmon run in this area.

Fireworks! Don't Buy—Just Dream

For two weeks starting Wednesday, young Victoria can dream about Halloween fireworks but can't legally buy any.

Almost uniform bylaws in the four Greater Victoria municipalities prohibit the sale of fireworks until the last three or four days of the month.

OCT. 14—OCT. 29

In Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, sale of fireworks is prohibited from Oct. 14 until Oct. 29, and sale is barred after 5 p.m. on the remaining days of the month.

Setting fireworks off is tightly restricted by law in Greater Victoria, too, but minor infractions—well, it's Halloween.

BANNED 'DOWNTOWN'

In Victoria, setting off fireworks is prohibited within the No. 1 fire limits, the area recognized as "downtown" between Caledonia and Elliott, except "on or over" residential property or with the consent of city council.

Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt all have laws against setting off fireworks in any street, highway or public park without special permits.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I was married five years to a rotter. He used to come home loaded, pull me out of bed, and beat me for no reason. He wouldn't let me go anywhere, not even to the grocery store. I never had a cent to call my own. It was like being in jail.

When our son was three I couldn't take it any more so I got a divorce. Now I'm married to the sweetest guy who ever lived. After what I've been through I can appreciate a man who treats me like a human being. The problem is, Don dislikes my son.

He cringes when the boy tries to climb on his lap. Don brings me little surprises and gifts, but never anything for the child. This is breaking my heart and I don't know what to do. I need help.—G.

Don Is Uncomfortable

Dear G: Don is uncomfortable around the boy because he identifies him with your first husband. This is tragic and unfair.

Ask your clergyman to talk with Don. If he hears from an outsider how his hostility toward the boy may cripple the marriage, it may help him to be more rational.

Dear Ann: My 17-year-old daughter, Fay, and I are having a spirited difference in opinion.

There's a growing social custom in our city—free, public dances for teenagers. Fay is lively, cute and popular. She has plenty of dates. I've permitted her to attend these dances because her girl friend (who is unpopular) wants her to go along. I don't like the idea and have said so.

He Owes Her a Lot

Dear Ann: My husband has an aunt who is 76 years old. She raised him when his mother died so he feels he owes her a lot.

This aunt lives 170 miles away, owns her own little bungalow and has a small income on which she manages nicely.

We drive over to see her every two weeks, just for the day. I don't mind, because it's a nice ride and she is good company and adores our children.

Lately my husband has been nagging her to sell her home and move in with us. We have room and I wouldn't mind, but I honestly feel she's better off where she is. He claims he's responsible for her and would feel better if she were under our roof. She's cool to the idea but in time, if he keeps nagging her, he may change her mind. Will you comment?—ELSIE.

Dear Elsie: Tell your husband to let his aunt live her own life. It's far better for older people to be independent in the twilight of their years, if they can manage it.

Auntie will be much happier in her own home with her own friends and neighbors. Let well enough alone.

A LOVELIER YOU

HELP FOR FRECKLED HANDS. A lovely writes: My hands have grown an unusually large crop of freckles this summer. Worse than a small fry's nose! Please tell me how I can get rid of them. The answer: You probably can't. Not altogether!

In some instances, freckles on the hands can be lightened a good deal by applications of a bleaching cream. Several such are available at cosmetic counters.

The appearance of a freckled hand immediately is improved by the use of a make-up blender. While it does not cover the freckles, it does a good job of blending them into the skin's normal tone. In the event you wonder, a blender does not rub off on clothing. It is waterproof—has to be sudsed off.

Given time, all freckles fade somewhat, if the skin is protected from the sun in the interim. Protection, where the hands are involved, comes in the form of gloves and sun-block lotions. Were those safeguards used from early April until the end of summer, hands would come through unfreckled.

They're Tough as Wire

Madam, those sheer stockings you're wearing are as sturdy as if they were made of steel wire.

According to an eastern chemical engineer, the breaking strength of the thread in a pair of filmy 15 denier nylons is 19 pounds while the breaking strength of steel wire of an equivalent weight is .08 pounds.

The secret of success in caring for nylons is in the handling, says a Montreal expert in town yesterday to show her company's wares.

Weight is the key word in the wear life of nylons.

In the old days 30 denier was the big thing.

Today, it takes one and one half miles of the best yarn woven into the most fullest fashioned 15 denier stocking to make the nicest result.

Believe it or not, it takes 30 minutes to weave one stocking, a rather complicated business that involves machines that cost up to $10,000 each, a dye job and a steam heat process that would leave the layman breathless.

Stockings are woven on huge machines in a neutral shade.

After they're dyed they go into a steam-heat room that sets their shape at a temperature of 250 degrees for one and three-quarter minutes.

It has been a long step for the hosiery industry since the days of long skirts and just a glimpse of milady's ankle.

Who will forget that historic day in 1946 when nylon reappeared into civilian life and the stocking stampede was on? Stores were mobbed by women eager to obtain this hitherto unobtainable luxury.

There are women who believe that freezing nylons or laundering them beforehand will prolong their wearability. Strictly superstition.

Believe it or not, you can launder them in the washing machine. There's an if. Put them in a bag to prevent tangling. Or boil them on the stove if you have several pairs and wish a compatible shade.

Watch the way you put your hosiery on. Use a clenched fist and roll your stockings on from the toe. The same applies when you are taking them off. Frequent pedicures and manicures help.

Also watch for the newest of the new, a tinsely Christmas stocking that will show off your prettiest party frock, brand-new, and soon to arrive on western markets.

Rejected Suitor Of Princess Pledged to Wed

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Former Group Capt. Peter Townsend, rejected suitor of Britain's Princess Margaret, is engaged to a pretty Belgian girl 24 years his junior.

The engagement was announced by the family of 20-year-old Marie-Luce Jamagne, horsewoman and photographer who accompanied Townsend on his round the world trip last year. The family made the announcement at its country estate near Antwerp.

Townsend, 44, wartime fighter ace, was turned down by Margaret in 1955 after a romance that made headlines all over the world. They met at Buckingham Palace, where Townsend was serving as a royal aide.

RENOUNCED HER LOVE

Margaret, now 29, renounced her love for Townsend in a note made public in October, 1955.

Townsend made a world tour to forget his blighted romance. Then last year he repeated the tour with a movie crew to make a travel film of the trip. Marie-Luce, whom he calls "my Luce," went along as a photographer.

Rumors of romance followed them from country to country. All were denied by Townsend, and any attempt to photograph the pair together resulted in an argument or flight by Townsend.

THINGS IN COMMON

Marie-Luce, daughter of a wealthy cigarette manufacturer, has some things in common with Princess Margaret.

Both are petite, pretty, and dark-haired. Both met Townsend when they were quite young—Margaret as a teenager in the palace and Marie-Luce at the age of 15, when Townsend came to Brussels as air attaché at the British embassy.

Both are excellent horsewomen, and Marie-Luce, although she has no palace background, is accustomed to luxury.

Townsend has two sons by his first marriage, which ended in divorce during his service at Buckingham Palace.

and her father up the aisle were attendants, Mrs. P. R. Clark, Mrs. Kerry Saunders and Miss Marie Hickman.

Mr. Bob Harvey was best man and ushers were Mr. Charles Francis and Mr. Charles Rutan.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married in Amsterdam, Holland, Oct. 4, 1899, and came to Canada in 1910. Mr. Smith was an accountant with diplomas in economics and psychology. In his early years in Canada he entered the church and preached in different parts of Saskatchewan for several years.

Annual Unsnapping of Snaps

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One of the questions I am constantly asked at this season of the year is what treatment is required for the snapdragons which have been blooming all summer. Should they be cut back, and by how much? What protection should be given them in order that they may put on another display next year?

While the seeds of snaps are usually listed in the "annuals" section of the catalogue, the plants are actually hardy perennials. They need no protection at all against the rigors of winter, and if cut back to about 12 inches, they will bloom again next summer.

Nevertheless, I think it is poor business to keep snaps from one year to the next, and I am all in favor of pulling them up by the roots and burning them, starting afresh every year.

cure for it. Rust seldom attacks the young and vigorous seedlings, but is found more often on the older plants, and particularly on the two-year-olds.

There are rust-resistant strains and varieties of snapdragons available, but I should point out that these are merely resistant, not immune, and even the best of them can become infected, or carry infection to other plants, when in a weakened condition.

Preventive measures consist of exercising careful garden hygiene by uprooting and burning affected plants at the first sign of the tell-tale pustules, and periodic preventive sprays or dustings with a preparation containing sulphur, ferate or captan.

If you have any especially unique or attractive snaps you wish to perpetuate, this can be done by taking cuttings. The growing tips of side shoots are best for this purpose, taking them off about four inches long, trimming off the lower leaves, and cutting the stem cleanly across immediately below a leaf node.

To kill off any rust or other disease spores which might be present, submerge the cuttings for an hour in a solution of permanganate of potash. Add enough of the little brown potash crystals to the water until it is the color of port wine. While they are soaking, get rid of the parent plant and wash your hands thoroughly before handling the cuttings so as not to re-infect them.

The cuttings are inserted about an inch deep around the edge of a flower pot filled with a 50-50 mixture of peat moss and coarse sand. Speedier rooting can be accomplished by dipping the cut end of each slip in a hormone rooting powder such as Rootone, Re-Root or Hormonex. The pots of slips must be kept cool, and are best in a coldframe, or in a cool north or east window indoors.

Antirrhinum seed may be sown now and will give lots of sturdy little plants for setting out in the spring. Again, use a coldframe, or an outdoor bed of rather gritty soil in a well-drained position in the garden. In either case, the soil should be limed with about one cupful of pulverized limestone per square yard, just scattering it on the surface and raking it in lightly.

The seed should be sown very thinly in drills half an inch deep, and covered with coarse sand. The seedlings, as they appear, are thinned to stand four inches apart in the row.

The Viewing World

Big Frolic in Nostalgia

"The Wonderful World of Entertainment," which ushered in Ford Starline (TV's Finest Hour) was a great big frolic in theatrical nostalgia and a perfectly wonderful time was had by all, especially by me. By the use of tape and careful planning and a careful marshalling of resources (plus an enormous advertising budget), this show, the first of Hubbell Robinson's specials as an independent producer, gave the impression of being a great star-studded extravaganza.

bounce and wit and, at the same time, marvelously human, which she isn't always.

Right at the outset she did a mad change of costume bit in which they pulled earlier on Dinah Shore's show) and this device got us properly launched into the '20s. This gave Eddie Foy Jr., Polly Bergen, and little Eddie Hodges a chance to go into an old soft shoe routine and sing "Ain't We Got Fun," setting the tone for the occasion.

From there on we wallowed in nostalgia with movie clips of Greta Garbo bumming a light from John Gilbert, Al Jolson saying "You ain't seen nothing yet," and that radio reporter describing the Hindenburg disaster in a voice choked with sobs.

That leads to a small complaint: there was nothing fresh or new. Granted it was a nostalgic piece, the dances like the "Black Bottom," the songs by Gershwin and Berlin, the drama by William Inge, all belong to a different time. It was beautiful and intelligent and brilliantly performed but it leaned heavily on the creative energies of the past.

The bits and pieces of future shows all are remakes of something else, too. The best parts of the first show to me were the original bits such as the sketch on the Rosalind Russell movies or Ernie Kovacs talking back to his own image on a TV screen and losing the argument. I devoutly hope that in the welter of Ford Star Time (TV's Finest Hour), a title that makes me slightly ill, will come up with a few new dramas, new program ideas, new personalities. Just the same it was a handsome beginning for an ambitious and tasteful series which should add great lustre to television.

Hollywood Today

Anna Drops Peeve to Do Film

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Anna Magnani has agreed to forget her peeve against Roberto Rossellini and will make a movie with him. Anna was girl No. 1 before Ingrid Bergman fell in love with the stocky, bald director. You can always find romance, says Anna, but a good movie is hard to come by.

Brigitte Bardot celebrated her 25th birthday last week with the resolve to appear in mature movies before she gives up in three years or so.

English actress Anna Neagle and husband Herbert Wilcox are filming the saga of "The Charge of the Light Brigade," under the title, "The Reason Why." Anna will not act in this one. A decade or so ago, she played Florence Nightingale, famed nurse of the Crimea War in which the light brigade rode into "the valley of death."

George Sanders plays the heaviest heavy in "Bluebeard's Seventh Honeymoon." But four-times-wed George is not the Bluebeard of the title.

Eva Marie Saint will take her two children to Israel when she goes there in March to play Kitty in the Otto Preminger production of "Exodus." Husband Jeff Hayden has to stay in Hollywood to direct "Winesburg, Ohio" for the Mirisch brothers.

With Victor Mature's "Hannibal" epic taking longer to finish in Rome, his marriage to Joy Urick may have to wait until the end of this month—unless Joy agrees to wed in Rome. She wants the knot tied in either London or Hollywood.

Big change for Dan Duryea: "I'm playing the commandant of a military academy for wealthy juvenile delinquents in 'Platinum High School,'" says Dan, who has been a heel in most of his movies.

Winning Contract

West, the star pupil, opened the spade jack, and when dummy came down, South was all smiles. He could count eleven high-card tricks, and assumed West's lead was from the top of a sequence. This would place the spade ten in West's hand, and afford declarer a chance to make a fourth spade trick even if the suit didn't divide. The normal lead from three to an honor not in sequence is the lowest one.

The bidding:
South West North East
3NT Pass 6NT All Pass

Opening lead: ♠ J

Today's hand was given to us by Bill Root, a formidable New York player, and a good bridge teacher. It took place when his star pupil invited him for an evening of rubber bridge. South, our expert, wound up as declarer in the best possible slam contract of six no-trump. North might have taken the bidding a little slower, in case the slam would play better in a suit, but his bid is acceptable.

After winning the spade lead with dummy's ace, declarer conceded a heart trick. If hearts were divided, declarer does not need a fourth spade trick. West won the heart nine and returned a diamond. South now cashed all of his top tricks except the spades. When hearts didn't break, he played the spade king and led another spade, confidently finessing dummy's nine spot. When East won the ten and cashed his high heart—setting the contract two tricks—Bill Root said to his pupil in amazement:

"Haven't I taught you to lead low from three to the jack?"

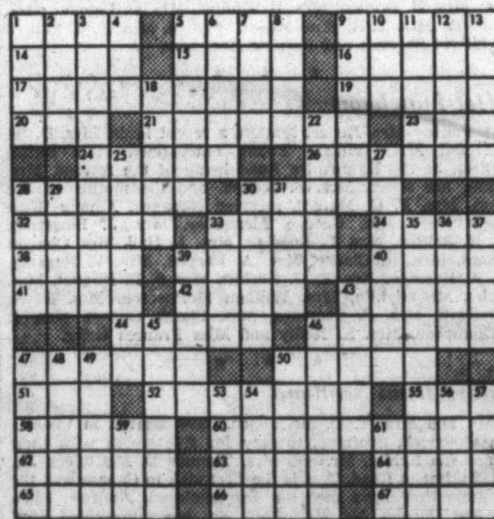

"Yes," West replied, "but what chance would I have against you if I always played just as you taught me?"

Protection from Tourists

Guards to March Behind 'Bars'

LONDON (UPI) — The scarlet-coated guardsmen at Buckingham Palace will be put behind bars to protect them from teasing and heckling by tourists, it was announced yesterday.

It was the first major change in the guarding of the palace since it became a royal residence in 1837, and it followed a series of incidents involving guardsmen and tourists.

Effective Oct. 17, sentries will be mounted "inside the forecourt in front of the building," the war office said. Officially, the reason for putting the ramrod-stiff guardsmen behind fence bars was "the number of people outside the palace is so great that it has become impossible for the sentries to patrol their beats in a proper manner."

Understand Our Panic Pleads TV Quiz Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dan Enright acknowledged Friday that he helped decide which contestants on the television quiz show, The Tac Dough, would be supplied with questions and answers in advance.

Testifying before Congressional investigators, Enright, former co-owner of the show, corroborated much of the program-rigging story previously told by Howard D. Felsher, who until last week produced the top-rated Tac Dough program.

Felsher also said he tried to persuade contestants to lie to a grand jury. When Enright was asked if he thought this was proper the witness said he did not try to halt it.

"I condoned the practice by my silence," Enright said. "Please try to understand the terror and panic that besieged us those days."

Pawn in Crap Game Label Given PGE

Progressive Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson yesterday charged in Victoria that Premier Bennett is using the PGE Railway as "a pawn in a political crap game."

But he predicted the PGE in 1959 will have the biggest year it ever had because during and immediately prior to the IWA strike of coastal woodworkers the PGE was used to carry wood products from interior operations which were not struck.

"That was one of the reasons the government was very unconcerned about an early settlement to the IWA strike. You didn't see the premier rushing in like he did before," Mr. Finlayson charged.

He said "the people are happy to have the railway, but would also be happy to have the true story of its operations. The railway is a good thing and the people would be happy to have the government subsidize it."

"Why doesn't he (the premier) lay out a simple system of bookkeeping like most businesses use? How can you compare, if he keeps changing the system of recording finances?" he asked.

He said the PGE party bonds "are safe purely because they are backed by the province. But they would not be safe if they were based on the operation of the railway."

He renewed his challenge to the premier to produce a financial accounting of the PGE operations. He claimed the PGE now has a gross debt totalling $160,000,000, plus recent indebtedness of $30,000,000.

Ottawa Tories Pledge Aid In B.C. Vote

Deane Finlayson said yesterday the federal Progressive Conservative organization has promised full support for the British Columbia Association in the next provincial election.

The provincial party leader said in an interview federal cabinet ministers and private members will speak throughout B.C. There would also be financial support from the federal party.

He said this is part of the message he will carry to 200 provincial executive delegates at the party's annual meeting at Harrison Hot Springs Oct. 24-25.

"There is a great federal-provincial co-operation abroad and there is a new realization among people that this is necessary."

This was especially true in the case of power development, such as the Columbia.

Although the development would take place in B.C. negotiations leading to it were in federal hands because of the international complications.

He anticipated the Harrison meeting would hear a number of resolutions proposing official party policy on power development. At least one district association is expected to call for public development in all future power projects in B.C.

"But the party won't buy it," Mr. Finlayson predicted.

Unite for Peace Mac Urges U.K.

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan appealed to the British nation Friday—on the heels of an election victory that buried the Labor party under a landslide—to unite behind his Conservatives in a march to peace.

As counting in Thursday's general election ended for the night with only two of the 630 districts missing, the Conservatives had an overall majority of exactly 100, compared to 53 in the last House of Commons. (See stories on page 5.)

The Conservatives elected 365 members to the House of Commons, compared with 258 for Labor and five for the Liberals.

GAIN OF 23

This was a net gain for the Conservatives of 23 seats and a loss for Labor of 23. The two remaining contests were in the Scottish Highlands, where results are not expected until today. One is expected to go Conservative and one Liberal.

One of the first bills to be presented by Macmillan's new government is expected to be one to facilitate the movement of industries to places with higher-than-average unemployment such as Scotland and Lancashire. In these areas are districts that went contrary to the Conservative swing.

The prime minister, who led his party into an almost unprecedented third term in power only 15 months after its popularity had reached a low ebb, told the British people in a television broadcast that he will use the authority of his re-elected government to promote world peace.

In the domestic field, the results of Thursday's election had shown that "the class war is obsolete" in England today, and "this seems to me a great gain for the future."

THREE TASKS

The powerful new government would strive to fulfill three main tasks:

"Maintain the national prosperity and... spread its benefits... throughout the country."

"Use our growing economic strength to increase our contribution to the life of countries overseas, particularly within the Commonwealth."

"Use our authority in the world to play our full part in the constant search for peace."

Meanwhile, it was indicated Macmillan will keep his cabinet ministers in their present posts when he plans his new administration next week.

Oct. 27 is the starting date for the new Parliament.

Some reconstruction is in order since the prime minister lost two junior ministers in Thursday's election and also has promised to appoint a minister of science.

'SETBACK'

A short time earlier in the night Hugh Galskell, leader of the Labor party, had told a press conference that socialism had "suffered neither a landslide or a disaster but a setback" in its vain bid to overthrow the party that has ruled the land since 1951.

There were some rumors in political circles that his own future as party leader might be in doubt, with a possible reascendency of Aneurin Bevan, the fiery leftwinger of the party who had been content to take a subsidiary role in this election.

B.C. Chief of CLC

Victorian Wins Top Labor Post

Robert Smeal, 39, a leading trade unionist in Victoria for many years, yesterday was elected president of the 126,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC).

He left the city to start work in Vancouver Aug. 1 as full-time secretary for the Canadian Airline Flight Attendants' Association, a national organization.

After several years as B.C. representative for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers, he resigned last year to resume work with Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

He polled 271 votes against 84 for Thomas McGrath, financial secretary of the Ironworkers' Local 97, at the federation's annual convention which wound up yesterday in Vancouver.

Mr. Smeal succeeds William Black, head of the hospital employees' union, who announced at the start of the convention that he would not run again.

The new president said he was taking office when labor is facing its most difficult problems in years.

ROBERT SMEAL

Born in England in 1920, Mr. Smeal came to Canada with his parents in 1929. He has lived in B.C. for the last 23 years.

BUS DRIVER

He has been a bus driver, served in the Canadian navy as an able seaman for five years, then spent 10 years in the trade movement with the brotherhood.

He has been vice-president of the federation since its formation four years ago and before that was an executive for several years in the old Canadian Congress of Labor federation in B.C.

River Towns On Columbia Adopt Escort

TRAIL (CP)—HMCS Columbia, the newest unit in Canada's modern anti-submarine fleet, will be adopted by municipalities located on the banks of the river for which it is named.

Official invitations have been sent to civic organizations in cities, towns and villages along the Columbia asking them to attend the destroyer's commissioning Nov. 7 at Burrard Dry Dock in Vancouver.

The proposal that the destroyer be adopted was advanced several months ago by local branches of the Navy League of Canada and the Naval Officers' Association.

SAVAGE BLIZZARDS STAGGER PRAIRIES

Grain Crop Loss Goes Into Millions

EDMONTON (CP)—Million-dollar grain crop losses... crippled highway construction programs... traffic snarls and a thousand minor auto accidents.

And the havoc wreaked by two early blizzards was growing as the second swept into Saskatchewan Friday night after striking Alberta.

Manitoba, already staggered by up to 20 inches of snow, awaited the second storm with a shudder. It was expected to reach the province tonight.

BELOW FREEZING

The blizzards came in below-freezing weather and were accompanied by 35-mile-an-hour winds. Only the extreme southern areas of the Prairies escaped their force.

The first storm petered out in Manitoba Thursday. The second blew over Alberta Friday.

LOOKS LIKE WINTER

"If this is winter, and it looks like it is, it will be spring before any more threshing is possible," a United Grain Growers crop report said Friday.

At least 100,000,000 bushels of grain, including 70,000,000 bushels of wheat, were buried under snow in Saskatchewan after a storm that began Wednesday.

In northern and western Alberta, only 40 per cent of the grain crop had been threshed in many areas.

FINAL BLOW

The storms were the culminating blow to harvesting and highway construction—both lagging because of wet, cold late summer weather.

Highways Minister Gordon Taylor of Alberta said the storm has dealt a death blow to much of this year's program, already 30 per cent behind.

MOTORISTS WARNED

Police in all three provinces urged motorists to stay put until snowbound highways could be cleared and icy streets sanded.

In Manitoba, 150 cars were reported stalled in the Carberry Hills between Brandon and Macgregor on the Trans-Canada Highway. Motels and hotels were jammed with travellers and truck drivers caught by the storm.

NO DEATHS

At Friday noon, no deaths or serious injuries had been attributed to the storm but at least one tragedy had been narrowly averted.

In Brandon, where 20 inches fell, the roof of a 10-room school collapsed. The pupils had been given the day off because of a teachers' meeting Thursday and no one was injured.

Traffic in Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg was tied up and trucks, buses and cars on the highways were forced off the road.

NOT DISTURBED

Rail and airline schedules were not seriously disturbed. The storms, unusually severe for early October, did the most damage to the crops, however.

In Saskatchewan, officials said there was little likelihood that any of the 70,000,000 bushels of unharvested grain would reach the granaries before spring. The loss in grade A yields would be from 15 to 20 per cent, even with ideal spring conditions.

The Alberta Wheat Pool, in a report issued before the snowstorm, said the wheat crop situation in the province was critical—with 50 per cent unharvested because of poor weather.

UN to Rush Tibet Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—After a bitter clash between Russia and the United States, the General Assembly's steering committee Friday night acted to set up a quick United Nations debate on charges of Chinese Communist oppression in Tibet.

Jaycee Past Presidents Gather

Ike Moves to End U.S. Steel Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—With union and industry hopelessly deadlocked, President Eisenhower Friday set in motion legal machinery to temporarily end the U.S. steel strike, now 87 days old.

"If permitted to continue, this strike would imperil the national health and safety," Eisenhower said in a statement announcing his action.

The president named a three-man fact-finding panel and instructed it to report to him by Oct. 16—a week from Friday.

Since Eisenhower must have this report before he can seek a strike-ending court injunction under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law, the walkout may last at least another week and perhaps several days longer.

The court order would send the steel workers back to work for 80 days. Unless a settlement is reached during this "cooling off" period, there is nothing to keep the strike from resuming—unless the government takes action.

Shot Hits Man, Rat

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said Friday a storekeeper apparently killed a rat and wounded a man with the same bullet.

They said they believe the man was wounded when the proprietor of a store shot at a rat with a small-calibre rifle.

The bullet went through the rat and a tarpaper partition and hit the man standing in an adjoining vacant lot. No names were released.

Shielded by Body

Heroic Boy, Cab Driver Saved Kassem's Life

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraqi authorities say a young boy and a cab driver saved Premier Abdel Karim Kassem from assassination.

Assailants fired at Kassem with machine-guns Wednesday during his daily ride down Baghdad's crowded main street. The revolutionary leader suffered three wounds. Radio Baghdad reported that the first burst of fire killed the premier's driver.

Then a youth broke from the crowd, hurled himself in front of the premier, shielding the main part of Kassem's body.

The report said a cab driver then drove between Kassem's station wagon and the gunmen, jammed on his brakes and jumped into the front seat of the premier's car. He pushed aside the body of the slain driver and raced to hospital.

The attackers, identified only as "criminal elements" by authorities, escaped in the confusion. The broadcast gave no indication of whether the boy who first shielded Kassem was hurt.

Reassuring bulletins on the 45-year-old premier's condition were issued periodically while officers pressed their search for the assailants. A dusk-to-dawn curfew was in effect indefinitely and schools were ordered closed until today at least. The capital was quiet.

Under Sofa All the Time

Owner's Dignity Lost In Lost Puppy Hunt

ORILLIA (CP)—To make it clear from the beginning, the lost brown puppy did not run under the house.

But Mrs. Mary Ball, 45, who spotted it outside of her home Thursday, was sure that it did. She enlisted the aid of her neighbors in digging a tunnel big enough to crawl through. And she crawled through it.

Few minutes later she called out the puppy wasn't there and she was coming out.

Seconds later she called out again: "I'm stuck."

Her neighbors phoned the police.

After some squirming, an officer managed to get a grip on one of the lady's legs.

He started to pull. Mrs. Ball called out again. The lady was modest.

The police went away. Mrs. Ball, somewhat loosened, gingerly backed out.

The puppy?

They found it under a chest in Mrs. Ball's home.

Plans Being Drawn For Nanaimo Pool

NANAIMO — Plans for the first stage of a $100,000 swimming pool are being drawn up. Kinsmen Club of Nanaimo has adopted the pool as a project for this year. City council will allow land on Bowne Park to be used for the site, and will take over operation of the pool after it is complete.

BCFP Scholarships

Island Pupils Share $3,600

DUNCAN — Seven UBC students from Island centres are among 13 British Columbia students awarded a total of $3,600 B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

Winner of a $300 scholarship is Philip L. Cottell, 18, of Ladysmith. Bursaries of $300 have been awarded to Marguerite Rennie, 18, of Crofton; Digby Kler, 23, Kenneth Long, 20, and Edwin MacDonald, 24, all of Youbou. James Mackie, 18, Youbou, and Dennis Holden, 22, Crofton, received $250 bursaries each.

ENGINEERING

Philip Cottell, son of Roy E. Cottell, a steam engineer at BCFP's Crofton pulp mill, attended high school in Ladysmith. He is enrolled in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and plans on a chemical engineering career.

Marguerite Rennie was educated at Cowichan High School and schools in Victoria and Spanish. She won a BCFP scholarship last year and is now in first year arts at UBC. She is the daughter of Ian A. Rennie, a boom foreman at Crofton pulp mill. She plans to become a teacher.

LAW SCHOOL

Digby Kler is the son of William Kler, watchman at Cowichan logging division. He attended Lake Cowichan High School and obtained his B.A. from UBC in 1958. He won a BCFP university entrance scholarship in 1954 and has received a bursary each year since. He is now enrolled in second year law.

Kenneth Long, son of J. P. Long, Cowichan logging division, attended Lake Cowichan High and Victoria College. He is presently in second year education, planning to become a teacher.

SCIENCE

Edwin MacDonald also attended Lake Cowichan and is working towards a science degree at UBC, majoring in mathematics and physics. He is the son of Mrs. Janet MacDonald, a clerk in the Cayuse store.

Jim Mackie attended schools in the Cowichan area and won a BCFP entrance scholarship in 1958. Planning to be a high school mathematics teacher, he is taking an arts and science course. He is the son of Charles T. Mackie, a shipper at Cowichan sawmill.

FORESTRY

Dennis Holden was born in Powell River and attended schools in Victoria. He won a BCFP scholarship in 1957 and is attending the school of forestry at UBC. On graduation he plans a career in forestry research. He is the son of Ernest Holden, steam engineer at the Crofton pulp mill.

'Girlie' Books Banned —Also Financial Post

NANAIMO — Magazines being collected for donation to Brannan Lake Industrial School can be on any subject but girls or high finance, Rev. G. H. Greenhalgh has stipulated.

Rev. Greenhalgh, of St. Paul's Anglican church, is in charge of collecting reading matter for the school.

But he has banned donations of "girlie magazines and copies of the Financial Post."

Hospital Rally Set for Duncan

DUNCAN — Cowichan's hospital planning committee will meet here Tuesday to discuss their brief calling for more hospitals here, which was rejected by Health Minister Eric Martin.

In it they proposed a 30-bed hospital at Lake Cowichan and a larger, new hospital in this area to replace the King's Daughters' Hospital.

The minister rejected the idea of an annex at the lake because of a B.C. Hospital Insurance Scheme survey and report made about five years ago.

Port Alberni Job Drive Gets Going

PORT ALBERNI—Ald. Jack Perry, chairman of the Alberni Valley Winter Employment Committee, has called on all district residents to help reduce seasonal unemployment.

He pointed out that the committee last year had "some measure of success," and said both Alberni and Port Alberni councils were planning to take advantage of the federal and provincial government plans to aid winter employment.

Instruction Given 500 By Duncan Firemen

DUNCAN—More than 500 persons last night received instructions on fire-fighting and rescue work during part of the volunteer fire department's "Fire Prevention Week" program.

The demonstrations were given by the 21-member unit on a supermarket property on Trunk Road. Used for "props" were the unit's 350-gallon fire truck and inhalator truck and equipment.

$50,000 Bylaw Pondered

CHEMAINUS — Council is considering a $50,000 bylaw to provide new and improved facilities for the volunteer fire department.

Finance chairman Coun. Stanley Dyke said it would mean an increase of about a mill on the district's municipal taxes. Coun. Dyke is also chairman of the North Cowichan fire committee.

BEFORE ELECTORS

He said the fire department's officers requested that plans be approved at the meeting of council last Thursday so there would be no doubt that it would go before the electors in December.

No one else had seen the plans so it was tabled. "So we can know what we are talking about before we start voting," said Coun. Donald Morton.

BOND MARKET POOR

Reeve C. A. P. Murison pointed out the bond market is poor and the sum would be considered small for a big dealer. He reminded council there was only one offer to float bonds earlier this year, for "half a million dollars."

Chemalunus Coun. Gerald Smith said the firemen will draw no pay "until it is paid off."

Zeballos Harbor Job Let

ZEBALLOS — The contract for construction of a $65,769 boat harbor at Zeballos has been let to a local firm, West Coast Ventures Ltd.

The company submitted the lowest of four bids on the project. The work is expected to be completed in six months.

BELOW LOW TIDE

The new harbor will be built in the slough at Zeballos. A 30-by-30-foot section of mill wharf and debris will be removed and a basin, 100 feet by 390 feet, will be dredged to a depth of seven feet below low tide.

50 FEET WIDE

An approach channel, 50 feet wide and 278 feet long, will be dredged, and a 386-foot-long line of floats will be moored in the basin. A 50-foot seaplane float will be included.

The harbor is used by district logging companies, the RCMP and the Department of Fisheries.

Ambulance Funds Sought

CAMPBELL RIVER — A special three-man committee is seeking support from district organizations to pay for the purchase of a new ambulance.

The committee will try to divide the cost of the ambulance in an area roughly comparable to the hospital district, including adjacent islands, and north beyond Sayward.

FOR $4,000

It is understood a new ambulance can be bought for some $4,000, equipped with two stretchers and a siren. The present vehicle is in poor condition.

The Campbell River village commission recently went on record as favoring the purchase of a new ambulance providing the cost could be apportioned throughout the district.

Oct. 24 Date For Plowmen

DUNCAN — Businessmen, farmers and teenagers will compete Oct. 24 for $240 in prize money, seven trophies and seven special prizes at the annual Cowichan plowing match.

Matches start at 10 a.m. on property at the rear of the Canoe Store, Koksilah, a mile south of Duncan. Official opening will be at 1 p.m.

Kill-Happy Hunters Hit

NANAIMO — Trigger-happy hunters who shoot does and fawns are causing concern to members of Nanaimo Fish and Game Club.

Vince Senini said yesterday he had recently found a newly-killed doe and fawn. "You might mistake a doe, but not a fawn," he said.

Bob Peterson said he felt club members could do little to halt the slaughter. He said killing of does and fawns has increased this year.

Port Alberni

Fires Being Probed

PORT ALBERNI — Investigators from the provincial fire marshal's office have looked over the sites of three Port Alberni fires during the week.

One official studied the Smith Memorial School on Tuesday where fire caused more than $26,000 damage early Sunday morning. No report had yet been received by fire chief W. P. Venables.

TWO WEEKS AGO

"Also being investigated are a fire which occurred some two weeks ago, gutting a warehouse on Alberni Ready Mix Company property near Rogers Creek, and a small fire in a box car close to the same site.

The car had been standing on a CPR siding from Sept. 24 to 29. On the latter date it was found that the interior had been charred by a fire which had apparently been laid on the floor of the car. Local officials have been at a loss to explain causes of the blazes.

Hunters Rush For Permits

NORTH COWICHAN — Hunters jammed municipal offices here yesterday to buy shooting permits, following a council decision Thursday to regulate shooting in some areas of the municipality.

So many hunters sought permits that the offices will be opened again this morning, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Council passed the contentious bylaw despite strong protests from Chemalunus Rod and Gun Club and Chemalunus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce.

The bylaw restricts shooting in some areas to persons owning special permits issued by the municipality. Built-up areas involving some 10 of the municipality's 75 square miles are affected.

NANAIMO — Brothers Pete and Tom Derbyshire were installed president and vice-president of Nanaimo Fireman's Association this week. Secretary-treasurer is Johnny McCann.

Quiet on Crime Front North Cowichan Told

NORTH COWICHAN — Police committee chairman Coun. Tony Staples commented yesterday that "all is quiet on the Duncan crime front."

He made the remark while releasing the September RCMP report for the Duncan detachment. He said that during the month there was $286 collected in fines and 30 complaints investigated.

Russian Plan Weird, Wonderful

Bering Dam, Black 'Bergs Might Warm Arctic

Russian scientists are ready to dam the Bering Strait and paint all the icebergs in sight to improve the climate of the north, and weatherman William H. Mackie claims it just might work.

Mr. Mackie was commenting on a story out of Washington in which Russian engineers and scientists listed two ideas for improving the Arctic climate.

First, they would like to build a 53-mile dam across the Bering Strait, and with the use of atomic power, pump water by the thousands of miles from the warm Pacific side of the dam into the cold Arctic side.

"That might raise the temperature there by a degree or so," Mr. Mackie said last night. "Because the warmer the water the warmer the air masses above it. But it would depend on how much water they moved."

But the second plan, sounding strictly from Buck Rogers, is a matter of conjecture to both Mr. Mackie and most U.S. weathermen.

That one involves painting all the icebergs black so they will melt faster. Theory is that if the bergs are covered with a dark substance, they will better absorb the sun's heat, melt faster, and make the climate of Siberia and northern China "milder and more humid."

However, Mr. Mackie and Dr. Harry Wexler, U.S. Weather Bureau scientist, claim there could be another, less pleasant effect.

"Changing the color of the ice surface would promote the melting all right," Mr. Mackie admitted. "It would also release more water in the air, and increase rain and snow-fall."

Mr. Wexler went further. He claimed that such a project would make the weather calamitously worse, and create "a new ice age."

And, since we get air masses from the north in Victoria, what would happen here if the Russians go on their damming and painting spree? Fear not, says Mr. Mackie.

"At worst, it could only lower our temperature by one or two degrees."

Own Shelter

Reeve To Go Below

A man who is convinced that plans to evacuate Greater Victoria in face of an imminent nuclear attack will lead to "a shambles," is experimenting with a bomb shelter in his Esquimalt home.

Cmdr. A. C. Wurtele, 321 Plaskett Place, has spoken out strongly as reeve of Esquimalt against an evacuation policy for whole city populations.

REASONABLE COST

He believes that bomb shelters giving protection against blast and falling debris, and in event of a nuclear attack against fallout as well, could be built at a fairly reasonable cost in the home.

This would give badly-needed flexibility to civil defence plans, Reeve Wurtele said, and enable local authorities to make the final decision on whether the population should evacuate or take to the shelters.

BOMB SHELTER

The reeve plans to convert a stoutly-built room in the basement of his own waterfront home into a bomb shelter. The room is about 10 feet square with walls of reinforced concrete six inches thick. It was built originally as a "jam cupboard."

The room is set against an unexcavated portion of the basement at the rear of the house, where an outcropping of solid rock was left untouched.

EMERGENCY SUPPLIES

Conversion plans include strengthening of the ceiling, providing ventilation, and stocking the shelter with emergency supplies of food and fresh water to last at least 14 days.

The federal government, which had a policy of evacuation of all major Canadian cities, recently modified its views considerably and came out in favor of basement shelters in homes.

Sport Fishing Ban Imposed

A ban on all sport fishing in the tidal waters of Sooke River, effective midnight tonight until further notice, was announced yesterday by the department of fisheries.

Harry Burrows, fisheries inspector, said the ban covers all angling and trolling in area 20 and is designed to ensure adequate escapement of spring and coho salmon to spawning grounds.

The ban covers tidal waters of the Sooke River, tributary to Sooke Harbor, and the line downstream from the confluence of Demaniel Creek, marked by fishing boundary signs.

Protection and conservation methods were authorized by A. J. Whittemore, fisheries director for the Pacific region, and are part of the continuing program to build up the salmon run in this area.

Wurtele Planning to Run Murdoch to Decide Soon

Reeve Plans Checkup In Oak Bay

Oak Bay's Reeve George Murdoch hasn't decided whether he'll run for office again this December, "although quite a number of ratepayers have asked me to."

Reeve Murdoch said yesterday that he will make his decision after his regular medical examination which he always has about this time of year.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION

"It's only fair to the ratepayers for a candidate to have a medical examination," he said. "It could save the expense of another election if something happens."

The reeve, who is 66, stressed that there's nothing wrong with his health: "I'm only a young fellow," he said, "and they keep me too busy for me to grow old."

SUCCESSOR NORRIS

Mr. Murdoch became reeve last December, succeeding Reeve Fred Norris, who retired halfway through his two-year term.

It was also reported yesterday that Oak Bay Coun. Fred Hawes may not run again in December because of pressure of business.

Mr. Hawes is manager of Shawinigan Lumber Yards Ltd. He could not be reached last night for comment on the report.

Fireworks! Don't Buy—Just Dream

For two weeks starting Wednesday, young Victoria can dream about Halloween fireworks but can't legally buy any.

Almost uniform bylaws in the four Greater Victoria municipalities prohibit the sale of fireworks until the last three or four days of the month.

OCT. 14—OCT. 29

In Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, sale of fireworks is prohibited from Oct. 14 until Oct. 29, and sale is barred after 6 p.m. on the remaining days of the month. Halloween used to go on too long when supplies could be replenished late at night.

Setting fireworks off is tightly restricted by law in Greater Victoria, too, but minor infractions—well, it's Halloween.

BANNED 'DOWNTOWN'

In Victoria, setting off fireworks is prohibited within the No. 1 fire limits, the area recognized as "downtown" between Caledonia and Elliott, except "on or over" residential property or with the consent of city council.

Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt all have laws against setting off fireworks in any street, highway or public park without special permits.

REEVE MURDOCH ... only fair to ratepayers

Enjoyed Every Minute Says Esquimalt Reeve

Reeve A. C. Wurtele last night indicated he will run again this December for a fifth consecutive term as chief magistrate in Esquimalt.

"I think I'd like to run again," the reeve told The Daily Colonist. "But I haven't finally made up my mind."

He became a councillor in Esquimalt shortly after his retirement from the Royal Canadian Navy with the rank of commander, in 1945, and kept his seat until 1951 when he was elected reeve.

His eight years as reeve — "I enjoy every minute of it" — have only strengthened his already firm belief that Esquimalt is "a wonderful place."

"I need a few more days, before I finally make up my mind," said Reeve Wurtele. "I have been asked to stand for election again. But I believe that anyone who stays too long in one job becomes self-centred and dictatorial, or at least self-opinionated."

Civil, Not Criminal Case Judge Rules at Duncan

DUNCAN — Judge Arnold Hanna acquitted a Vancouver man of a charge of theft involving a power saw in county court Thursday and commented that it should have been a civil rather than criminal case.

His view disagreed with Crown prosecutor David Williams who said Badoo Singh Burns took the law into his own hands when he sold a saw belonging to a Cowichan Lake man.

Burns said he sold the $130 saw for $52 in an effort to get $100 that his former employer, Balwant Singh Bilm of Mesachie Lake, a fuel dealer, owed him.

Bilm claimed he had overpaid Burns about $70 for work done in the spring of last year. No books could be produced to prove either statements.

LADYSMITH — The Yellow Point Drama Group, a top contender in provincial events, is to enter the B.C. Regional Contest of the Dominion Drama Festival.

The group will offer a three-act play entitled "The Cradle Song." The first act of the play has already brought them the Nanaimo Perpetual Trophy for best directing when presented at the spring Mid-Island Festival this year.

CAMPBELL RIVER — They may not have a ferry ready yet for the projected Campbell River-Quadra Island service, but they do have a name—Quadra Queen.

Construction of the ferry for the service is under way. The name was chosen by Quadra residents and approved this week by the director of Marine Services in Ottawa. Service is planned to start early next year.

PORT ALBERNI — It's Apple Day in the Alberni Valley today and 24 valley Scout troops and Cub packs will benefit.

Hundreds of the youngsters will cover the whole district, selling apples, to raise money to finance scouting activities.

GANGES — A new pound-keeper is being sought for the pound district of North Salt Spring Island, to replace Merida Cummings who is leaving the island to make her home elsewhere.

The district, which was approved early in the year, has been operating smoothly and efficiently, and it is important now that someone be found to take over from Miss Cummings Nov. 1.

PARKSVILLE — During this week, Fire Prevention Week, Fire Chief William Wheeler and his volunteer crew are carrying on inspections of homes and business places for possible fire hazards.

This check is being made at the request of those who wish to have their premises inspected and is in the nature of a fire prevention education program.

The fire department is also conducting a series of lectures on fire prevention and films are being shown on the subject. Fire Chief Wheeler has been invited to address the Parksville Chamber of Commerce at the next meeting at the Island Hall Hotel, Oct. 13.

CHEMAINUS — North Cowichan council has refused a request to let its equipment be used here to clear a site for a new Anglican rectory.

Council stuck to its policy of refusing to hire out machinery that would compete with private companies who are paying taxes that are used to buy municipal equipment, said Reeve C. A. P. Mursion.

DUNCAN — The Flying C Ranch on Herd Road is to be billed $20 by the municipality for damage caused to the newly-paved road in front of the property earlier this month.

Council says its lawyers have evidence enough to prosecute, but the dude ranch will be billed because "it isn't the amount, but the principle."

Damage was done to the road when a string of horses were ridden over it. Maximum fine could be $100. "They were warned," said Reeve C. A. P. Mursion.

DUNCAN — Funeral services for Sidney Dawkin, 55, have been postponed and will be held Tuesday instead of today, as announced yesterday by relations.

Services will be in the Hirst funeral chapel, starting at 2 p.m.

PARKSVILLE — The badminton season is now in full swing with games being played by the senior group at the junior high school every Thursday evening.

GANGES — The lack of picnic sites, access roads to beaches, and park areas here has been discussed at length by Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce Council.

Many unfavorable comments have been received from tourists, and the Chamber plans a concerted effort in this direction. It is hoped assistance will be given by governmental departments. A boat basin and launching ramp, at Ganges, have been under consideration for some time.

Publicity folders for Salt Spring Island will be revamped, with special attention being given to the inclusion of a more detailed road map. A general dinner meeting is being planned by the Chamber for late November.

NORTH COWICHAN — Council has decided to abandon a road allowance that has never been used to make a road, and to give part of it to Queen Margaret's School which has a well dug in the middle of it.

The public property "is of no use to us," said Coun. Donald Morton, works chairman. The school is on the north of the road allowance.

The school uses the water from the well for riding stock in a nearby barn.

DUNCAN — Three councillors will likely represent this area at the annual "stockholders' meeting of the B.C. Power Commission Oct. 29 at Parksville.

Councillors Donald Morton and Gerald Smith are definitely going and Coun. Stanley Dyke said he will probably go.

DUNCAN — Thieves got more than $150 yesterday morning from the unlocked safe of Bazett & Vickers Lumber Company, 571 Canada Avenue.

Police are investigating the breaking and entering and have taken fingerprints. An $18 cheque from the Cowichan Exhibition was also taken. Police said the safe was left unlocked when the office was closed Thursday night.

PORT ALBERNI — A Bamfield man was convicted of bootlegging at the west coast centre Oct. 7 after two members of Port Alberni detachment RCMP in plain clothes made a purchase from him.

Clifton Richard Massey appeared before Magistrate F. W. Stewart and was fined $300. A quantity of hard liquor and beer was seized by RCMP officers.

Unite for Peace Mac Urges U.K.

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan appealed to the British nation Friday—on the heels of an election victory that buried the Labor party under a landslide—to unite behind his Conservatives in a march to peace.

As counting in Thursday's general election ended for the night with only two of the 630 districts missing, the Conservatives had an overall majority of exactly 100, compared to 53 in the last House of Commons. (See stories on page 5.)

The Conservatives elected 365 members to the House of Commons, compared with 258 for Labor and five for the Liberals.

GAIN OF 23

This was a net gain for the Conservatives of 23 seats and a loss for Labor of 23. The two remaining contests were in the Scottish Highlands, where results are not expected until today. One is expected to go Conservative and one Liberal.

One of the first bills to be presented by Macmillan's new government is expected to be one to facilitate the movement of industries to places with higher-than-average unemployment such as Scotland and Lancashire. In these areas are districts that went contrary to the Conservative swing.

The prime minister, who led his party into an almost unprecedented third term in power only 15 months after its popularity had reached a low ebb, told the British people in a television broadcast that he will use the authority of his re-elected government to promote world peace.

In the domestic field, the results of Thursday's election had shown that "the class war is obsolete" in England today, and "this seems to me a great gain for the future."

The powerful new government would strive to fulfill three main tasks:

"Maintain the national prosperity and . . . spread its benefits . . . throughout the country."

"Use our growing economic strength to increase our contribution to the life of countries overseas, particularly within the Commonwealth."

"Use our authority in the world to play our full part in the constant search for peace."

Meanwhile, it was indicated Macmillan will keep his cabinet ministers in their present posts when he plans his new administration next week.

Oct. 27 is the starting date for the new Parliament.

Some reconstruction is in order since the prime minister lost two junior ministers in Thursday's election and he also has promised to appoint a minister of science.

'SETBACK'

A short time earlier in the night Hugh Gaitskill, leader of the Labor party, had told a press conference that socialism had "suffered neither a landslide or a disaster but a setback" in its vain bid to overthrow the party that has ruled the land since 1951.

There were some rumors in political circles that his own future as party leader might be in doubt, with a possible reascendency of Aneurin Bevan, the fiery leftwinger of the party who had been content to take a subsidiary role in this election.

B.C. Federation Chief

Victorian Wins Top Labor Post

Robert Smeal, 39, a leading trade unionist in Victoria for many years, yesterday was elected president of the 126,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC).

He left the city to start work in Vancouver Aug. 1 as full-time secretary for the Canadian Airline Flight Attendants' Association, a national organization.

After several years as B.C. representative for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers, he resigned last year to resume work with Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

He polled 271 votes against 84 for Thomas McGrath, financial secretary of the Ironworkers' Local 97, at the federation's annual convention which wound up yesterday in Vancouver.

Mr. Smeal succeeds William Black, head of the hospital employees' union, who announced at the start of the convention that he would not run again.

The new president said he was taking office when labor is facing its most difficult problems in years.

BUS DRIVER

He has been a bus driver, served in the Canadian navy as an able seaman for five years, then spent 10 years in the trade movement with the brotherhood.

He has been vice-president of the federation since its formation four years ago and before that was an executive for several years in the old Canadian Congress of Labor federation in B.C.

NOT DISTURBED

Rail and airline schedules were not seriously disturbed.

The storms, unusually severe for early October, did the most damage to the crops, however.

In Saskatchewan, officials said there was little likelihood that any of the 70,000,000 bushels of unharvested grain would reach the granaries before spring.

The loss in Grade A yields would be from 15 to 20 per cent, even with ideal spring conditions.

The Alberta Wheat Pool, in a report issued before the snowstorm, said the wheat crop situation in the province was critical—with 59 per cent unharvested because of poor weather.

Official invitations have been sent to civic organizations in cities, towns and villages along the Columbia asking them to attend the destroyer's commissioning Nov. 7 at Burrard Dry Dock in Vancouver.

The proposal that the destroyer be adopted was advanced several months ago by local branches of the Navy League of Canada and the Naval Officers' Association.

Loss Feared In Millions

EDMONTON (CP)—Million-dollar grain crop losses . . . crippled highway construction programs . . . traffic snarls and a thousand minor auto accidents.

And the havoc wreaked by two early blizzards was growing as the second swept into Saskatchewan Friday night after striking Alberta.

Manitoba, already staggered by up to 20 inches of snow, awaited the second storm with a shudder. It was expected to reach the province tonight.

BELOW FREEZING

The blizzards came in below-freezing weather and were accompanied by 35-mile-an-hour winds. Only the extreme southern areas of the Prairies escaped their force.

The first storm petered out in Manitoba Thursday. The second blew over Alberta Friday.

LOOKS LIKE WINTER

"If this is winter, and it looks like it is, it will be spring before any more threshing is possible," a United Grain Growers crop report said Friday.

At least 100,000,000 bushels of grain, including 70,000,000 bushels of wheat, were buried under snow in Saskatchewan after a storm that began Wednesday.

In northern and western Alberta, only 40 per cent of the grain crop had been threshed in many areas.

FINAL BLOW

The storms were the culminating blow to harvesting and highway construction—both lagging because of wet, cold, late summer weather.

Highways Minister Gordon Taylor of Alberta said the storm has dealt a death blow to much of this year's program, already 30 per cent behind.

MOTORISTS WARNED

Police in all three provinces urged motorists to stay put until snowbound highways could be cleared and icy streets sanded.

In Manitoba, 150 cars were reported stalled in the Carberry Hills between Brandon and Macgregor on the Trans-Canada Highway. Motels and hotels were jammed with travellers and truck drivers caught by the storm.

NO DEATHS

At Friday noon, no deaths or serious injuries had been attributed to the storm but at least one tragedy had been narrowly averted.

In Brandon, where 20 inches fell, the roof of a 10-room school collapsed. The pupils had been given the day off because of a teachers' meeting Thursday and no one was injured.

Traffic in Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg was tied up and trucks, buses and cars on the highways were forced off the road.

In Saskatchewan, officials said there was little likelihood that any of the 70,000,000 bushels of unharvested grain would reach the granaries before spring.

Heroic Boy, Cab Driver Saved Kassem's Life

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraqi authorities say a young boy and a cab driver saved Premier Abdel Karim Kassem from assassination.

Assailants fired at Kassem with machine-guns Wednesday during his daily ride down Baghdad's crowded main street. The revolutionary leader suffered three wounds.

Radio Baghdad reported that the first burst of fire killed the premier's driver.

Jaycee Past Presidents Gather

Gathering of former Junior Chamber of Commerce presidents at the Pacific Club yesterday left no doubt that the Jaycees of today are the business leaders of tomorrow. Top to bottom, William Mearns (1941), B.C. Electric vice-president; William Straith (1929), lawyer and former minister of education; Percy George (1932), long-time mayor and now member of Public Utilities Commission.

Ike Moves to End U.S. Steel Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—With union and industry hopelessly deadlocked, President Eisenhower Friday set in motion legal machinery to temporarily end the U.S. steel strike, now 87 days old.

"If permitted to continue, this strike would imperil the national health and safety," Eisenhower said in a statement announcing his action.

The president named a three-man fact-finding panel and instructed it to report to him by Oct. 16—a week from Friday.

Since Eisenhower must have this report before he can seek a strike-ending court injunction under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law, the walkout may last at least another week and perhaps several days longer.

The court order would send the steel workers back to work for 90 days. Unless a settlement is reached during this "cooling off" period, there is nothing to keep the strike from resuming—unless the government takes action.

Owner's Dignity Lost In Lost Puppy Hunt

ORILLIA (CP)—To make it clear from the beginning, the lost brown puppy did not run under the house.

But Mrs. Mary Ball, 45, who spotted it outside of her home Thursday, was sure that it did. She enlisted the aid of her neighbors in digging a tunnel big enough to crawl through. And she crawled through it.

Few minutes later she called out the puppy wasn't there and she was coming out.

Seconds later she called out again: "I'm stuck."

Her neighbors phoned the police.

After some squirming, an officer managed to get a grip on one of the lady's legs.

He started to pull. Mrs. Ball called out again. The lady was modest.

The police went away. Mrs. Ball, somewhat loosened, gingerly backed out.

The puppy?

They found it under a chest in Mrs. Ball's home.
